THE RUSS-JAPANESE TREATY

Current History Magazine condenses this much-talked-of convention as follows:

1. The convention provides for the full recognition of Soviet Russia by Japan and for the prompt establishment of diplomatic and consular relations between the two countries.

Current History Magazine condenses this much-talked-of convention as follows:

1. The convention provides for the full recognition of Soviet Russia by Japan and for the prompt establishment of diplomatic and consular relations between the two countries.

2. The Russian Government recognizes the Treaty of Portsmouth; but other treaties between Japan and Russia are to be re-examined, as the case may be.

3. A treaty of commerce and navigation is promised, which is to rest on the ordinary principles of the rights to enter, travel and reside by citizens of either country.

4. Propaganda is dealt with in Article V of the convention, which reads as follows:

The High Contracting Parties solemnly affirm their desire and intention to live in peace and amity with each other, scrupulously to respect the undoubted right of a State to order its own life within its own jurisdiction in its own way, to refrain and to restrain all persons in any governmental service for them, and all organizations in receipt of any financial assistance from them, from any act overt or covert liable in any way whatsoever to endanger the order and security in any part of the territories of Japan and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

It is further agreed that neither contracting Party shall permit the presence in the territories under its jurisdiction: (a) of organizations or groups pretending to be the government for any part of the territories of the other Party, or (b) of alien subjects or citizens who may be found to be actually carrying on political activities for such organizations or groups activities for such organizations or groups.
