Japan's Foreign Policy

CHINA

By Baron K. Shidehara

(The following are the three points laid down by Foreign Minister Shidehara in his speech before the Diet in January, defining Japan's policy toward China):

"First, we naturally are anxious to see the early re-establishment of order and security in China. We are actuated instinctively by sympathy for our neighboring friends and by the need of safeguarding industrial and commercial interests of our nationals."

"However, this can be attained only by the efforts initiated by the Chinese themselves. Any attempt to force domestic peace by outside pressure would do more harm than good. With the object of lending support and providing full opportunity for the endeavors of the Chinese people who are struggling for peace, we have found it necessary to prohibit all supply of arms and loans to China which might be applied for purposes of civil war."

"Since 1919 we have been exercising the most stringent control within the limits of our power to make the prohibition effective, and we have no intention at present of relaxing that control. It seems evident that no foreign power professing the policy of non-intervention in China's domestic affairs can permit the supply of arms or loans that would assist any faction in China to carry on hostilities against another."

"Secondly, the Chinese themselves must decide who shall assume the reins of government in China or what internal policy is sane and wise. If such policy suits Chinese characteristics and serves to promote the internal prosperity and international prestige of China, it will naturally gain ground there."

"If, on the contrary, it betrays these expectations it will fail itself. The national life of the Chinese people has grown up with their historical background extending several thousand years and amidst peculiar surroundings. No plans for political and social institutions worked out by any foreign nation can be imposed

PRINCES CHICHIBU AND TAKAMATSU TO INSPECT NEW NAVAL AIRSHIP N3

Japan's Newest Dirigible To Fly Over Tokyo In April

Special to the Japanese American News

TOKYO, March 26—H. I. H. Princes Chichibu and Takamatsu will go to Kasumigaura tomorrow and inspect the newly built dirigible N3 of the Japanese Navy. The N3, which incorporates all the most up-to-date features in airship construction, was built under the personal supervision of Umberto Nobile, who is well known as the builder of the airship Norge which successfully accomplished the polar flight.

The N3 will be seen over the city of Tokyo during the latter part of April on a demonstration flight, and the Italian Engineer, Mr. Nobile will personally pilot the craft. Under the present plans the dirigible will participate in both the air pageant at Nagoya on April 23 and the Naval air manoeuvre in May.

Japanese Consul at Nanking Leaves City

Special to the Japanese American News

TOKYO, March 26—The Japanese consul at Nanking safely withdrew to the Japanese torpedo destroyer under the escort of sailors from the ship. The consul carried all the valuable papers and the photograph of the Emperor with him to the ship. It is reported that many Japanese homes in Nanking have been ransacked by undisciplined Southern soldiers.

Fifty-Second Imperial Diet Adjourned Today

TOKYO, March 26—The fifty second session of the Imperial Diet adjourned today. Premier Wakatsuki read the Imperial message at the closing ceremony.

upon China with lasting success.

"Thirdly, our nationals in China are entitled to complete protection of their person and property and to enjoy all guarantees of international law accepted by the whole civilized world. These elementary rights assured to nationals cannot be abridged or modified by political or social changes that may take place in China, nor are we informed so far of any faction there denying such rights."

Japan's Notables To Welcome Kengaku-Dan

Premier Wakatsuki, Prince Tokugawa Plans Welcome

According to the special cable message from Japan received by the Japanese American News yesterday, preparations for a very cordial and extensive reception is being prepared for the Nichi-Bei Kengaku Dan, which will arrive in Yokohama on Monday afternoon, March 28, which is two days later than the scheduled time.

Among the notables now engaged in making preparations to welcome the Nichi-Bei party include Reijiro Wakatsuki, Premier of Japan; Prince Iyasato Tokugawa, President of the House of Peers; Eichi Shibusawa, commonly known as the "Grand Old Man of Japan"; Viscount Shimpei Goto, prominent political leader and former mayor of Tokyo; and Kenichi Fujita, President of the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce.

From all indications the Third Nichi-Bei party will be accorded the same cordiality that was shown the second party, whose members created a laudable impression among the people of Japan.

TAIRA TO REPRESENT FRESNO AT U.C. ALUMNI ORATORICAL CONTEST

Winner of Preliminary Is Honor Student at Fresno Hi

Kikuo Taira, one of the six special honor students of Fresno High School last semester, won the preliminary oratorical contest held by the Fresno Japanese Students' Club on Wednesday night, March 23, at eight o'clock, at the M. E. Church. Other competitors were Henry Kazato, Miss Etsu Kawata and Miss Setsuko Saiki, all attending the Fresno High School. The topic on which they spoke was "The Value of Higher Education of the Second Generation in a Japanese Community."

The young people, who tried out to be selected as the Student Club's representative in the state championship oratorical contest sponsored by the Japanese Alumni of the University of California on April 9, had their speeches well prepared, and, as a result, the judges found it hard to choose the best.

THREE PROMINENT MEN ARE THE JUDGES:

The judges were K. Kameno, Fresno editor of the Japanese American News; Dr. T. Yatabe, and M. Hino. Miss Pauline Masuda gave a few introductory remarks, and announced the various speakers.

Preceding the speeches, Harold Sakaguchi rendered a harmonica solo which was well received. While the judges were in conference, Miss Misao Matsuyama gave two readings. Tea and Japanese wafers were served by Rev. Machida of the M. E. Church following the close of the contest.

THE STRUGGLE DEDICATED TO THE UNKNOWN, AMATEUR ARTISTS

(By Iwao Kawakami)

Banging on the piano, Sketching on the slate; Writing a simple story, Singing in youthful elate. The great, hard struggle From these first start, With bitterness and joy Sweeping over the heart. With clumsy fingers aching From the infinite pain, Of doing the same thing Over and over again. Through the dark of night, Till the gray break of morn; Though the world never wakes To the cry of new-born. Yet, in the end, torture and hate From below or above, Will crumble when we create With the power of love.

Pioneers Of S. F. "Y" Form into Two Groups

At the last meeting of the Pioneers Club of the San Francisco Japanese Y. M. C. A., the Pioneers decided to form into two groups; one to be called "Flying Dutchmen," composed of boys from twelve to thirteen years of age, and the other group composed of the members from thirteen to fourteen, taking the well-known name, "Dutch Cleansers."

At each meeting, there are two members delegated to tell stories, and at the last meeting, Kimio Obata of the "Dutch Cleansers" made a big "hit" by telling a ghost story which ended up in a "bang."

Roy Kaneko won the ping-pong championship of the club by defeating Kimio Obata in two straight sets.
