SPRING LEAGUE CHAMPS HAVE FINANCIAL SURPLUS AFTER SPLENDID SEASON

Stockton Yamato Cubs Council Meeting Reveals Profit

At the Council meeting of the Yamato Baseball Club of Stockton, held on the evening of May 25, the feature of the evening's report was the treasurer's income and expense report of the Yamato baseball team.

This season (spring) recently ended with a top record in the games encountered, proved to be financially successful also.

According to the report of the treasurer, James Okamoto, the total income is $691.71; total expenses $465.61, which leaves a good balance.

It is not often that the clubs are managed so dexterously as to have a surplus at the end of the season.

Harry Emerson Fosdick's, "The Manhood of the Master," which was very interesting and inspiring. Notably among the speakers of our own race were two men from the Pacific coast, Rev. Mr. C. J. Tagashira of the Berkeley M. E. Church and Mr. T. Kawasaki of the Consulate-General staff.

Rev. Tagashira spoke upon the mission of the second-generation and stressed the importance of the spiritual contribution that the young people could make toward America. Mr. Kawasaki gave a very practical talk upon Japanese floral arrangements and the innate love of nature of our race.

As a donation to the service of the church and its respective organizations, a beautiful, new bulletin board now hangs in the hallway of the church as a result of the work of Mr. Abe who is the third vice-president of the Epworth League.

Underlying the activities of the League is the joy of service, the pleasure of work, the spirit of co-operation and above all, the following of Christ's example and the fulfilling of His plan.

Small Arms Drill "Com-pa-nee atten-shun," bawled the drill sergeant to the awkward squad. "Com-pa-nee, lift up your left leg, and hold it straight in front of you."

By mistake one member held up his right leg, which brought it out side by side with his neighbor's left leg.

"And who is the blasted, blank galoot over there holding up both legs?" shouted the hard-boiled sergeant.

Pan-Pacific Youth

By Kenji Hamada

While it is entirely commendable for men associated with the task of fostering a closer inter-racial relationship among the peoples living on the Pacific border, to concentrate their energies upon the more intricate phases of our social and scientific problems, it may nevertheless be of some profit to delve into the problems of our youth and observe as to the general direction in which it is headed.

On the other hand, we find a type of youth with the glorious heritage of Anglo-Saxon achievements—sturdy, ingenious, aggressive—building its little foundation of future progress side by side with a multitude of alien groups with whom it has sprung up, and struggling for recognition, for equal opportunities, in a strange social system that beckons its aspirations and ambitions in favor of the malinsins, (new comers) from the mainland.

On the other hand we find a group of an entirely different background, struggling for the same ideal. By this type of youth, we mean those thousands of young men possessed of a yellow epidermis and an Oriental tradition but molded into a creature of modernity by the educative forces of Western, and therefore Christian, civilization.

They are, metaphorically speaking, a concentrated energy composed of a queer jargon of many languages, many ideas and many abilities, but as yet with no definite character to mold these attributes into a practical, compact whole known as individuality.

Some blame the parents, and others ascribe this deficiency to the absence of a "refining" system of home education, while still others merely speak of it disparagingly and place little confidence in the assimilative capacities of those possessed of physical and spiritual values so distinctly at variance with their own.

It should be said on their behalf, however, that these youthful people are now passing through an awkward period of transition, and until the "Rubicon" is definitely crossed, it ought to be the aim of those responsible for their well-being, to accord them the more desirable forms of guidance through constant contact, both in school and in public life, but more particularly at home. If it is remembered that the ultimate type of people they blossom into, will be to a considerable degree the result of the handwork, directly or indirectly, of their elders on both

S.F. JAPANESE Y TAKING LEAD IN CITY Y. M. C. A. FLOOD RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Blazing Arrow Boys Have Worked and Collected $33.51

In the Flood Relief Fund campaign sponsored by the San Francisco Y. M. C. A., the Japanese branch is heading the list with the contribution of $33.51. The reports from other branches are as follows: Central, $26.40; Mission, $15.00; Central district, $5.00; Chinese, $1.50 and Park Presidio, $1.00. The total is $73.86.

Every cent that the Japanese boys have contributed to the fund has been worked for and earned by that work. Their goal is $50 and over $100 from the San Francisco Y. M. C. A.

Tokyo To Issue New Anniversary Stamps

The department of communication is now printing special stamps to be issued in June for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Japan's entry into the National Postal Union. Anniversary date is June 20.

The stamps will be in denominations of one sen five rin, three sen, four sen and ten sen. The designs on the stamps will be of two kinds. One of them will be the figure of Baron Macshima, the benefactor of Japanese communication.

sides of the Pacific and that any imperfection in them must necessarily be traced to the character of the latter, perhaps there might arise a better comradeship, and less disparagement, between the two groups.

Whatever their shortcomings, it is obvious that the two types of youth above described are rapidly approaching that period of development where their participation in the major activities of the day will permanently decide the destiny of Pan-Pacific co-operation. The future leadership of the Pacific will devolve upon them, their respective aspirations are identical, and there is scarcely any reason to believe that the ideal for which they are both striving will, upon fruition, be shattered by the same social ailment that originally created it. But the quality of this leadership will depend upon their attitude toward the existing social order, and in the proper molding of this attitude lies the responsibility of the leaders of today

Nichi-Bei Kengaku-Dan Member Writes of Trip

"Japanese Spirit Is Still Unaltered," Writes Dobayashi

(By Tomiko Dobayashi) Having journeyed in Japan for some time, I wish to write briefly as to how Japan has been revealed to me. My friends told me that this trip was a golden opportunity and that as the old proverb states, "One seeing is better than a hundred hearings," I have realized as I went from one interesting place to another. The days and men of the past are gone, but their spirit still seem to hover over the historical remains and famous old spots, and one cannot help but feel awed when visiting these places for the first time. Some such remains are the Diabutsu, Himeji, Kamakura's temples, Nagoya Castle, Himeji Castle, etc. While wandering through the temples and castles, I saw an innumerable number of the beautiful works of art and architecture of long ago, including the wonderful paintings by Kano, and Hidar Jinguo's marvelous carvings. By studying such pieces of art and architecture, came to the conclusion that quantity was not considered, that patience, skill, time and energy were expended in creating works of quality.

"Tofu" Becoming Popular Among Hawaii-Americans

Some Japanese foods are finding a permanent place in the diet of Americans living in Hawaii, especially the Japanese tofu, or bean-curd. Tofu is indeed a delicacy and especially in Hawaii it is suited to the hot climate. There is nothing more refreshing than tofu on a hot afternoon. According to Dr. Patterson, a member of the territorial legislature of Hawaii, tofu is rapidly becoming popular among the Americans here.

Dr. Patterson asserts: "Tofu," or bean-curd, is among the Japanese delicacies that are proving quite popular among the Americans. "That's a really good food. I like very well. And so do my children. Whenever they see a Japanese peddling tofu, they always call my attention to it and ask me to buy it. It is a rare delicacy. And it is good for the health, because it is only bad feature about it is that it spoils very easily."

CAMP MCCOY CALLS TO JAPANESE CAMPERS WITH RECREATIVE ATTRACTION

Camp Scenes May Be Procured at S. F. Headquarters

Boys! listen, boys! Have you already planned your summer vacation? If not, listen to what the San Francisco Y. M. C. A. has to offer. According to the folder issued by the local Japanese chapter of the Y. M. C. A.: "The association has one of the most desirable mountain-camp sites in Northern California—Camp McCoy."

Easy of access, free from poison oak and sheltered among the big redwoods, it offers about all that is desirable in a mountain camp, where boys may live close to God's great out-of-doors and come under the spell of his handiwork.

Talk about your swell "swimming hole" and the great Strawberry Lake—why it simply can't be beat! Hikes, both short and long, are prominent features. And the camp fires! Oh, boy! Probably the most enjoyed single feature of camp. The circle of eager faces with eyes on the fire and ears wide open to drink in the clean stories of adventure and accomplishments, and the talks which inspire and challenge."

There are some scenic pictures which are ready for distribution. Ask or write for them at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters. Do it now.

Two Japanese Girls are Holders of Sport Records

New Standing Broad Jump Record Is 2.61 Meters; Hitomi's Jump

Feminine Japanese athletes are rapidly coming to the front. Many world's records are held by the girl athletes of Cherry Blossom land. Miss Kinue Hitomi, Japan's leading women athlete, broke the world's record in standing broad jump for women at an athletic meet held at the Meiji Stadium recently under the auspices of the Tokyo Nichi Nichi News. Her record was 2.61 meters (one meter equals 39.37 inches). The old record of 2.55 meters was held by Miss Camelia Sabie of America.

Miss Masako Yano, a high school girl of Japan, holds the world's record of basketball free throw, 56 out of possible 60.

S.F. Proto Club Discusses Future Plans at Meeting

Club Receives Challenge from San Jose and Watsonville Baseball Nines

The cabinet meeting of the recently organized Proto Club of the San Francisco Buddhist Church was held last Friday, starting at 8 p. m.

Among the various important subjects discussed at the meeting were:

- 1. Baseball challenge from San Jose Asahi babes and from Watsonville nine. Challenges will be brought up at the next general meeting.
2. The Proto Club constitution to be adopted following the regular Y. M. B. A. form.
3. Debate or oratorical contest to be challenged with any close-by-organization. Meanwhile to hold inter-club speech practice.

At 9 p. m. the meeting was adjourned. The officers present were: James Hashimoto, Itatani, Bud Yoshinaga, James Nii, Matsui, Tako Enomoto and President Oski Taniwaki.
