THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

company in Manchuria, which makes Chinese and Japanese art a poetry in picture and not a mere pictorial representation. Most of the artists were literary men. They thought deeply and sought to express their thoughts in their paintings. Mr. Binyon, in his book, brings this point out with great lucidity. "The Flight of the Dragon" is worth reading, not only because its author is an authority on the subject, but also because it will undoubtedly stimulate the reader to explore into that fascinating field of study, the Japanese art.

An elaborate welcome will be given the invading boys on the evening of July 29, when delegates from the Wakayama Associations of Northern California will assemble and participate in the reception, which will be held at the Kinmon Gakuen hall.

The following is the party's schedule: July 29, arrive in San Francisco; July 30-31, stay in S.F.; August 1, in East Bay; August 2, visit to Stanford; August 3, leave S.F. for Sacramento; August 5, game with Sacramento Nippons; August 6, 7, and 8, to Yosemite and Fresno via Stockton; August 9, in Fresno; August 10, leave Fresno; August 11, arrive in L.A.; August 12 and
