In one of the biggest upsets in the history of Northern California net circles, Fred Shimura, a young dark horse, defeated Y. Kitsuda, who recently won from W. Shimizu, last year's Northern California champion.

The championship match in which Shimura won the title for northern California took place last Sunday at the Golden Gate Park courts.

Shimura had a jump over his more experienced opponent and out-played him in every department of the game. It was Kitsuda's off day, and the veteran was far from being in his best form.

KNOW JAPAN SLOGAN OF U. S. BORN

Problem of Choosing Career Confronts Youths in U. S.

By PAX VOIBISUCUM (By special arrangements with the Japan Times)

(This is the second of a series of three articles we are publishing on the American-born Japanese by a special Tokyo writer. These studies are of special interest to our readers because they reveal the reaction of a Japanese student on the problems of the American citizen of Japanese ancestry.—Editor.)

Not Tendency.—Editor.

In recent years and especially since the passage of the U. S. immigration law which struck Japan with a death blow, it seems, and which made the second generation Japanese sit up and take notice, there has been a growing tendency on the part of young Americans of Nipponese parentage to take more interest in things Japanese and in Japan herself.

Another characteristic is that the studios are not found in one or two large cities as is the case in most countries. They are distributed all over Japan. What is more, some of the companies have studios in various cities. So, for example, a historical film can be made in Kyoto, the old imperial city with its thousands of temples, and among those there are not more than 30 Europeans.

On the other hand, if a film is to have an industrial background, the same company can go to its studio in Osaka, the gigantic city of one million people. This is Japan's industrial city, where, but a few years ago, even a steam-engine was unknown.

But today, the Japanese build the largest warships etc. there. If American atmosphere is desired, the director turns to Tokyo with its modern skyscrapers, its huge auto traffic, its elevated, and its up-to-date stores.

Despite all of the advantages which the Japanese films have over our own, it has also a great disadvantage in that they are not suitable for export. There are a number of reasons for this. For one thing, the Japanese film is made up of but a few scenes and these are very long and drawn out. There are also numerous dialogues which cover hundreds of feet of film, and although the actors are excellent in the pantomime with which they recite these dialogues, we would actually "play" them. In this connection it must not be forgotten that the majority of the Japanese moving picture theaters employ an official "explainer" who recites the roles of the individual actors. In the case of larger films, any number of these are used, so that the

Japan's Movie Industry Ranks Third In World; German Critic Sees Bright Future for Talking Films in Nippon

(Japan's movie industry, which ranks next after that of America and Germany, is vividly described by Helmut Karl Heland in the "Leipzig Illustrirte Zeitung," which we here quote, in part:)

Each large film concern produces only those pictures which are to be shown in its own theaters. The companies all have a considerable amount of capital at their command, for they are principally theaters, that is to say, their stages are used alternately for the spoken drama and the film. For this reason, the individual companies have large staffs of artists under long contracts, which call for the actor's appearance on the stage as well as in the studio.

Another characteristic is that the studios are not found in one or two large cities as is the case in most countries. They are distributed all over Japan. What is more, some of the companies have studios in various cities. So, for example, a historical film can be made in Kyoto, the old imperial city with its thousands of temples, and among those there are not more than 30 Europeans.

On the other hand, if a film is to have an industrial background, the same company can go to its studio in Osaka, the gigantic city of one million people. This is Japan's industrial city, where, but a few years ago, even a steam-engine was unknown.

But today, the Japanese build the largest warships etc. there. If American atmosphere is desired, the director turns to Tokyo with its modern skyscrapers, its huge auto traffic, its elevated, and its up-to-date stores.

CHINESE IN TEST CASE

Immigration Commissioner Says Court Usurps Power

Alleging that Federal courts are gradually usurping the authority of immigration boards of inquiry, the United States Department of Labor is making a test case of 14 Chinese who secured writs of habeas corpus which prevented their deportation.

As the matter is one involving jurisdiction, the Federal Court is sitting en banc to determine the validity of the claim of Immigration Commissioner J. D. Nagle.

He contends that only in cases where a question of law is involved or where a person claims to be a native of the United States have the courts any right to interfere with the finding of the immigration boards which pass on the eligibility of aliens to enter the country.

Presenting the case of the immigration bureau, George M. Nais, assistant United States attorney, in his brief yesterday argued: "The judiciary of the national government is without power to interfere with the political act of the executive in refusing admission of an alien into our territory when the refusal is based on a denial by the executive of an essential fact asserted by the alien and the Legislature has given finality to the executive's denial. Inferior courts of the United States are not created by the Constitution but are creatures of the Congress and have no jurisdiction not expressly given to them by Congress."

LOCAL Y TO HOLD MOVIES TWO NIGHTS

Y. M. C. A. Will Present Screen Masterpiece from Japan

Considerable interest is being shown among the Japanese movie fans of this city in the announcement that the Mothers' Club of the local Japanese Y. M. C. A. will show the screen version of "Sayo-ko," a powerful domestic drama in which the clash between the old and new Nippon is vividly pictured. The film will be screened Saturday evening at the local Kinmon Gakuen auditorium on Bush street.

On the following evening, Sunday, the Mothers' Club will present another dramatic photoplay, "Kanashii Ummei" or the "Tragedy of Fate" in the same auditorium. This picture was made under the supervision of the Ministry of Education of the Japanese government.

These two movie nights are being sponsored in order to raise funds for carrying on an extensive program of the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Division for the year 1928-1929. Betsu Kimura, the second best "katsuben" in the state, will take charge of the two-day program, and this fact alone promises to draw a large crowd.

The local Y.M.C.A. has seen a noteworthy development in its membership and activities lately, and it's boys' work program this season include not only physical recreation but also spiritual and moral welfare plans.

Local Buddhists To Hold Special Meeting Tonight

A special meeting of the Y.M.B.A. will be held Friday evening at the local Buddhist church on Pine street in order to form a schedule for baseball games and discuss plans for basketball and other sports for the coming season.

OUR JUNIOR SECTION

TODAY'S NEW MEMBER

Jane S. Tashima, P. O. Box 386, Garfield, Utah.

Jane, who is a new member, forgot to tell us her age and birthday. Don't forget to do so next time you write to us, Jane. Here is her little poem.

Day by day I sit in a chair Down by our sunny patch, Reading "Our Junior Section" With joy that nothing can match.

So I wish it much happiness, And happiness it has given me, And also success and popularity, From sea to shining sea.

Yoshiko Morimoto, who lives in San Diego, writes us that she is going to get Japanese girls and boys to join our Junior Club. Here is her joke:

Neighbor (looking at a photograph): Cute little fellow! He has your face. Farmer: What! Didn't I tell you that was an X-ray of his lungs?

Kazu Moriyama, one of our first members, sends us this interesting letter:

I am very sorry I could not write any sooner. As I said I was coming home in 2 or 3 days in Stockton. But I stayed 2 weeks and 3 days. It was so hot there that we went to swimming every day to the Jackson swimming bath. They had the American Legion Convention there, and they had a parade and so I went to see it and the costumes were very pretty.

We hope you enjoyed your swimming, Kazu, as Stockton is much hotter than San Francisco. Here is one of Kazu's jokes:

What kind of a ship has two mates and no captain? Ans: Courtship.
