50 MILLION ESTIMATE OF STORM LOSS

U. S. Red Cross Calls For Aid to Porto Rico Victims

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The American Red Cross sent telegrams to its 3500 chapters in the United States asking redoubled efforts to raise a large relief fund for Porto Rico and other hurricane-stricken islands.

The telegrams said that latest word showed the Porto Rico disaster even worse than at first feared, and that vast sums would be needed to furnish not only temporary relief but later rehabilitation of the victims.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 17.—(UP)—A meeting at the governor's palace has been called for today to consider means of bringing relief to the thousands of Porto Ricans who are homeless and starving as a result of the hurricane which swept the island Thursday.

Though relief is being rushed to the island from the United States, it was estimated that many persons were in danger from famine and pestilence.

Communication with the interior of the land is still impossible. Torrential rains have caused many landslides along the highways. Trees have been torn up by the roots. Officials here believe fully half of the population is homeless.

With conservative estimates of the dead placed at 100 it was believed that as reports on the havoc worked in the interior of the island would increase that number. At Cayey it was reported that 30 had perished and that 35 had died in the city of Rumanco. It was believed that the injured in the two places would number more than 100. Ponce was reported as devastated but there was no definite count of dead or of the destruction there.

Estimates of the damage, formulated by a group of bankers here, placed the loss of cattle at 200,000, the loss to the coffee crop, one of the best in many years, at $30,000,000 and the loss to the sugar crop almost as heavy although hope was entertained that some of the cane flattened by the wind would recover.

It was believed that the total damage would far exceed $50,000,000.

Townier forwarded estimates that there are 700,000 homeless.

Townier said the hurricane disaster was the worst that ever occurred in the West Indies.

May Need Target Practise

General Manuel Perez Trevino, believed by many Mexicans to be the most likely successor of President Calles, apparently believes in preparedness. He is shown at target practise in the state of Coahuila, of which he is Governor.

RIDS GRAFTS IN POLITICS

Great Strides in Nippon's Politics Observed

The Christian Science Monitor sees a new era in Japanese politics with the prosecution of blackmailing societies and leaders during the recent roundup by the authorities. The Monitor's enlightening editorial follows—Editor.

Japan's decision to rid its body politic of blackmailing societies, a decision which has been put into effect with the arrest in Tokyo of the leaders of one of the most notorious of these societies, is in many respects to be reckoned as among the most important steps in that nation's political evolution during recent years.

With the cessation of the Tokugawa Shogunate in 1868 and the restoration of all temporal power to the Emperor, accompanied, as it was, by a genuine unification of the nation, there was little place left in society for these roni.

Shipments had been asked by the grape clearing houses to suspend partial cleaning up of overstocked Eastern markets.

It was my first voyage on a large ocean-going steamer and I feel very sorry that, owing to my poor knowledge of the English language, I am unable to express adequately the many thrills produced by the many exciting incidents and beautiful scenery we experienced on the journey, short as it was.

Chicago On Move To Avenge Crime Of Extortionists

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Chicago moved today to destroy the Mafia, extortion ring which for 13 days has held prisoner 10-year-old "Billy" Ranieri, demanding $50,000 for his release.

BIG THROG SEES SCOUT EXHIBITION

Campcraft Features Open Night for Troop 12

One hundred and fifty Japanese residents, guests of the Japanese Boy Scouts of this city, were given a rare treat Saturday night when they were entertained with a delightful program and stacks of hot cakes at the annual "open house" sponsored by Troop 12 at its headquarters on Sutter street.

Following short addresses by Scoutmaster Sano and Ichiro Misumi, assistant scoutmaster, the boys gave series of signaling exhibitions first with flags, then with lamp and finally with the telegraph code, transmitting the messages given by the visitors. Then the scouts went over the various scout crafts which they learned in the camps. Their excellent demonstration in first aid in particular was given a fine response from the audience.

The array of scoutcraft works, which the boys had prepared for the big exhibit was also generously commented upon.

A model of a bridge, scientifically designed by the scouts and constructed of small branches of willow trees, and supporting over 200 pounds of weight, attracted the interest of the spectators.

Bows and arrows and other small tools on exhibit also received good comments from the guests. The most spectacular exhibit was a model of a bridge, scientifically designed by the scouts and constructed of small branches of willow trees, and supporting over 200 pounds of weight, attracted the interest of the spectators.

But of all places," he added, "I find your jungles the pleasantest; they are so varied, beautiful and safe."

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Chicago moved today to destroy the Mafia, extortion ring which for 13 days has held prisoner 10-year-old "Billy" Ranieri, demanding $50,000 for his release.

Chicago's Sicilian colony, for years victimized by well organized extortion rings, apparently has decided to overthrow the terrorist rule, police announced today.

Police said law sliding Sicilians had sent word about the colony that "an eye for an eye, a life for a life" would be exacted of the kidnapers of the Ranieri child.

Thousands Converted To "The Path of Heaven"

LOS ANGELES, September 16.—(Special)—Thirteen local Japanese photographers figured prominently in the International Photograph Exhibit held at Toronto Canada. The exhibit came to a close on Sept. 8. A study entitled "A Parasol" by Shindo was among the 12 best in the entire group, which represents the best talent from over 40 nations.

The local photographers whose work appeared in the exhibit included Assahi, Homma, Kato, Konno, Maeda, Nakamura, Shimojima, Kimura, Kira, Kuniwaka, Nakagawa, Kobayashi and Shindo.

Kolke, from Seattle, Miyake of Portland, Ota of Pasadena and Yuzukane of San Francisco were also among those who qualified.

San Mateo Club Held Party for New Freshmen

Four Japanese freshman students, newly enrolled at the San Mateo Junior College, were guests of the Students' Club at an initiation party held Friday evening at their headquarters in San Mateo.

Under the chairmanship of Ken Nishimoto, toastmaster, the dinner opened with a welcome speech by Henry Minami, president of the club, and an address by Masaji Abe on the history and purpose of the club.

In response, S. Miho, M. Ito and H. Onishi made short speeches of thanks, which were followed by announcements of various social activities in store for the Freshmen by James Yano. Other vital plans were announced by Shig Kosakura, secretary-treasurer of the club.

The reception was concluded with the customary ceremonies of Freshman initiation.

The new students at the college were M. Ito, H. Onishi and H. Fujikino.

POLICE NAB FOUNDER OF JAPAN CULT

Thousands Converted To "The Path of Heaven"

TOKYO, Sept. 15.—A religious charlatan, Onishi by name, his entire family and several of his "apostles" have been arrested by the authorities on charges of lese majeste and of having organized a society injurious to the welfare of the state of Japan.

Onishi, who is 47 years of age, organized a new religious sect, which he called "The Path of Heaven" and represented himself as an incarnation of the sun, while his daughter, aged 19, was represented as an incarnation of the moon.

Onishi, who is 47 years of age, organized a new religious sect, which he called "The Path of Heaven" and represented himself as an incarnation of the sun, while his daughter, aged 19, was represented as an incarnation of the moon.

Onishi Headquarters Raided

This was more than the authorities could allow to pass unnoticed, and swift action followed. Special warrants were made out by the judicial authorities and Onishi's headquarters at Nara, near Kyoto, were suddenly surrounded by a strong cordon of police and the mock-divinity and his family and other leaders taken into custody.

How strong was the hold Onishi had over his followers may be seen from the fact that, when the police closed in on his temple there were several hundred worshippers there at the time and all were firmly convinced that no earthly power could hurt Onishi but he care to invoke assistance from the various other deities of the sun and moon.

Lives In Luxury

Onishi is uneducated. He lived a grand and luxurious life surrounded by what the vernacular papers call "all one can desire in life." His person was regarded as sacred, while to his inner chamber were admitted only his "apostles" and his "spiritual sisters." This apartment, it is said, was lavishly decorated with gold and silver ornaments, valuable brocades and costly silks, while everywhere the 16-petaled chrysanthemum, the emblem of the imperial family of Japan was prominently displayed. He and his family were addressed by names that the Japanese bestow only on deities, and the fanaticism with which he was regarded defies imagination in this matter-of-fact age.

The authorities are greatly concerned over the seeming ease with which Onishi was able to bamboozle thousands.

If proved guilty of lese majeste or conspiracy to alter the existing form of society, Onishi and his adherents will be liable to the death penalty in accordance with the revised peace preservation law which was passed early this year.

MUSSOLINI HONORS YOUTHS OF OLD NIPPON WHO DIED FIGHTING FOR A LOST CAUSE

Y.M.C.A. Scores In Baseball Game Sunday, By 4 to 2

The local Y.M.C.A. met defeat at the hands of the Y.M.C.A. Sunday afternoon at the Funston park by a 4-2 score. The game, however, was more thrilling than the score indicates, for toward the end of the game the Buddhist boys had bases full at three times, threatening each time to avert the impending defeat.

Takao and Madakoro were the batter for the winners, while Kitahara and Okamoto and Yasukawa composed the batteries for the Templars. Kaneko of the Y. M. C. A. was the outstanding star of the day, and Kawai from Pasadena also played a good game. For the Buddhist boys, Itatani and Yasuda made good showings.

YOUTH GIVEN SPORT POST

Miho Appointed New Manager of San Mateo Club

SAN MATEO, September 17.—(Special)—Shuichi Miho, a second generation tennis player and a member of the San Francisco Y. M. C. A., was appointed by Henry Minami, president of the San Mateo Japanese Student club, to take charge of the athletic activities of the club.

Although Miho's selection was made by appointment instead of election, due to the fact that no Freshman could be elected to an office, the choice was unanimously approved by the club members.

Miho announced that the club will organize basketball and tennis teams. In basketball, San Mateo will probably give stiff competition to the San Francisco Students' club, Proto, Showa and other teams from nearby towns. With Miho and Nishimoto, two strong players on the tennis team, the San Mateo racketeers will be able to challenge any leading aggregation on the Coast. Matches with Stanford and U. C. Japanese Students' Clubs are now being considered.

OUR JUNIOR SECTION

One of the most popular of our Junior Club members, Mabel Chiyeko Araki, age 14, birthday August 9, who lives at Rt. 3 Box 69, Petaluma, California, writes in this interesting letter:

With joy and gladness I am reading our interesting Junior Club every day. When I read our Junior club I enjoyed it with gratitude and appreciation. And, dear Junior Club, I received a letter from Alice Fujishige. I am going to try and find some boys and girls to join our best Junior Club. Those who haven't joined the Junior Club, I wish they don't be afraid and join it. Don't you?

Here is a charming poem which Mabel sends us:

JAPAN HITS POWER RATE

Ired Populace Holds Meeting to Curb Companies

TOKYO, Sept. 17.—(Special)—The nation-wide protest against the high power rate reached its climax today when citizens of virtually every important prefecture in the Empire held bitter meetings and organized themselves to resist the power operators who refused to comply with the demands of the public.

Riots, attacks on power plants and other acts of violence were common occurrences in the prefectures of Kochi, Kumamoto, Gumbu, Tochigi, Saitama, Chubu and Ibaraki. With the backing and sympathy of the Social Democrat party, leading proletarian organization in Nippon, the population has voluntarily extinguished all electric lights in the homes and resorted to kerosene lamps as a protest against what they believe is an extortionate power rate.

The first protest was undertaken by the people of Namerigawa in Toyama prefecture in northern Japan, where electric power operators came to a clash with the consumers. Big public demonstrations followed and the protest was taken up by other cities until it has taken on the character of a nation-wide demand for lower rate on all electrical power.

Nippon Women Take Part in Railway Vote

TOKYO, Aug. 25.—(By mail)—Women railway operatives above 18 years of age, including booking office girls, railway crossing keepers and janitors were happy though somewhat shy when they cast their first vote in Japan's first "general election" under woman suffrage, the fifth general election of the Imperial Government Railway operatives committee, which was simultaneously conducted throughout Japan on August 22.

At Osaka station, which is the seventh electoral district of the Osaka Division's committee, Station Master Osumi directed the procedure and a "general election" atmosphere prevailed in and around the station master's room. On the walls were posted the names of the seven candidates and also their campaign posters, each advising the voters to "Vote for..." All the 22 women operatives of the station voted.

THE WEATHER Official forecast: Tuesday—fair and mild. Moderate westerly winds.
