U. S. NEGRO PERFORMERS SHOCK JAPAN

Minstrels Bewilder Europeans, Amuse Americans

TOKYO, Oct. 15—A hilarious and novel, but somewhat trained night of minstrelsy, dancing and songs, including popular plantation and jazz numbers, was enjoyed by those who braved the summer heat to see the Wilbur Blackbirds speed through a two and half-hour program at the Imperial Hotel Auditorium. The Negro entertainers, the first of the kind to perform in Japan, raised a terrible racket—as the aghast Japanese spectators, who had never seen the like of them, all felt, albeit some of their musical numbers were delightful.

Laughter, even when at its loudest, was somewhat constrained, for the Japanese as well as the European spectators could not quite take in the rapid fire performance. For one thing the Japanese were somewhat taken aback by the ample display of physical pulchritude by the female members of the chocolate-colored troupe.

Gladys Stewart and Miss La Buster Dunston featured in the dancing numbers, which for speed and noise had the quiet, graceful Gelsa dances look like slow motion picture performances. How their nimble feet could caper to the tune of the jazz music was a revelation to those who had never seen the negro do his stuff.

BIG SURPRISE

In the series of boisterous dances, however, there was one incongruity which had the spectators feeling uneasy throughout the evening, until just before the curtain went down for the evening. The so-called incongruity was due to the presence and performance of Miss La Buster Dunston, that tall, sinewy, dark figure that made the spectators gasp and giggle too, at her dancing acts. Her partner, an "Olio", Norman Stewart, looked like a dwarf beside her, but just before the Grande Finale, the comparison was proved to be just, for the so-called "Miss La Buster Dunston took off her dark bobbing wig and revealed behind the amazed audience a man's head. That was the big surprise of the evening but some opined that it would have been better for the whole show had he danced as his normal self instead of so outrageously libeling female grace.

"DANCE EVOLUTION"

"Evolution of the Dance," the last number before the Grande Finale, was interesting, especially the Varsity Drag, which was performed by the girls, but it would have gone over bigger and better had dance been longer and more elaborately performed. Taking the show as a whole, however, it was as good as one as could expect in this country where the patrons for such shows are exceedingly limited, in fact, almost entirely to foreigners.

Penryn Girls Bow To Stockton Busy Bee Cagers 11-19

STOCKTON, Oct. 13—(Special)—The invading Penryn Y. W. B. A. lost a hard fought game to the Busy Bee Club on October 7 by the score of 19-11.

The game was close throughout. Although the Busy Bees were ahead in the first quarter, 11-9, the Penryn Shoji-Kwai began to reduce the lead until they were only one "bucket" shy at the end of the half and it looked as if the game would end in tie as in a previous game played at the beginning of the season. But Frank Mirikitani and Rudolph Miyata had the local girls in a fine condition, and this was a factor in the final victory for the Stockton girls.

Mary Kamachi, the fast guard of the Busy Bee Club, held the opponents through the last half with only one shot, while Capt. Kuni and Nellie Fukuyama scored for the local team.

Mary Yamaya, captain of the mountaineers, scored 8 points and was an outstanding star of the day.

TODAY'S NEW MEMBER

George Himi, 1956 Bush Street, San Francisco, age 9, birthday November 27.

GEORGE writes this riddle: What alphabet goes under a knife? Ans.: A p (pen).

Well, George, we're mighty glad you joined us and we wish that hard riddle to guess. Send us more.

Rose Himi, George's sister, says she has written to Mabel Araki but didn't get an answer yet. Try someone else, Rose, for I think Mabel has so readers correspondents that she is probably too busy to write to all. Here are some suggestions:

Toshi Nagao, Rt. B Box 246-A, Sausalito. She is eleven years old.

Betty Nagata, Rt. 1, Box 374, Fruitdale Avenue, San Jose. She is thirteen years old.

Rose sends us this joke: There was once two young men. Their names were Billy and Willy, and they were both courting Alice. When Billy got to her house one night, he saw an automobile sign which read "Willy's Knight", so Billy went home angry.

Well, Billy was pretty considerate to go home silently without footing the horn all night, wasn't he? Thanks for the joke, Rose. Write again.

HUGE THRON ENJOY BANQUET

Tableau Depicts Life Of Christ, Wins Admiration

BERKELEY, Oct. 15—(Special)—Nearly four hundred Japanese young people of the Bay district and Northern California, by far the largest gathering of its kind ever assembled here, enjoyed a wonderful fellowship hour and banquet Saturday evening as the culminating event to the three-day conference of the Young People's Christian Federation convening here Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

After the strenuous session of the day, the delegates partook in the gaiety of the dinner with a lively gusto, enlivened by joyous songs, and challenging yells from the various tables grouped in the vast banquet hall of the First Congregational Church. Shigeru Saito of San Francisco presided.

Perhaps the most beautiful and inspiring event of the entire conference then followed. Although the mood of the audience was a bit hilarious for the fullest appreciation of the full grandeur of the program depicting the life of Christ, nevertheless the performance was put over in a stunning fashion. The colorful and elaborate spectacle presented by the Epworth League of the Oakland Japanese M. E. Church, consisted of four scenes of tableau.

The first portrayed the birth of Christ, with angels and the Wise Men and Shepherds in adoration. The trial of Jesus before Pilate was the theme of the second scene, while Jesus bearing the cross to his doom was the third. The last scene, a fitting climax to the series, was modelled after the famous picture of Leonardo Da Vinci's "Last Supper."

The closing was superb, while the lighting effects were flawless. Much credit is due to James Hirano who conceived two of the scenes and supervised the entire production, in which was an impressive sermon in itself. The Oakland Japanese Methodist choir assisted with its glorious singing to produce the holy atmosphere.

Following the pageant, an open forum was conducted by Rev. B. E. Watson. Some lively discussion developed on the topic of Christian service. Carl Hirota, president of the Oakland Independence Church rendered accompanied sacred selections.

At nine o'clock a brief business session of the conference was held under the chairmanship of Miss Sumiko Morishita, head of the Federation. The chief business was the election of new officers. Henry Takahashi, chairman of the nomination committee, which was unanimously accepted. Miss Sumiko Morishita was re-elected chairman. The names of the other officers are listed in another column of this paper.

A short period of community singing, under the leadership of Ben Furuta, concluded the second day session of the Fourth Annual Conference.
