BERKELEY NISSEI ELEVEN DOWNS ALAMEDA WARRIOR IN GRID CLASSIC 27 TO 0

Yoshimine Takes Ball 24 Yards to Touchdown

BERKELEY, Nov. 14.—(Special)—Executing several deceiving passes without a fumble in mud and water, and out-playing their opponents in every department of the game, the Berkeley Nissei eleven won the annual Berkeley vs. Alameda classic by 27-0, Monday afternoon, at the Taikai ball ground.

Yo Tabata, brother of Nobu Tabata, well know all-round athlete, kicked off for the winner and forced the opponents to punt back in the initial quarter. The first touchdown came when Tad Yoshimine ran 24 yards on a beautiful double reverse. The extra point was made by Hid Nakagawa around the left end. Few minutes later Yoshimine again ran twenty two to a touchdown on a fake hidden reverse, baffling all the spectators as well as the opponents. Pop Warner would blush with shame if he saw that play.

SHOWS POWER

Early in the second quarter Nissei showed a real power play by plowing through tackle and center in an unstoppable march of 45 yards into the opponent's territory. The third touchdown was made by Hid Nakagawa through right tackle, and the extra unit was achieved by Yamamoto by a place kick.

The last touchdown was the most spectacular one. The Mudhens kicked off. The Nisseis grounded the ball on their own thirty yard line. On the first play Tad Yoshimine ran fifty five yards, placing the ball on the Mudhen's 15 yard line. Takaki crossed the line in the second play off tackle on a fake reverse for 6 units. The extra unit was obtained by penalty.

The score: 27-0 as the third quarter ended.

The Alamedans fought gamely until the last minutes, and had plenty of speed, but were unable to utilize it in a "swimming pool" field. Yoshino and Nakano, right tackle and guard respectively of the Alamedans, were good. But they could not carry the ball, receive passes, or score a touchdown playing on the line.

Hanaro of Berkeley was hurt during the game, and will probably leave out of the game this season.

The third quarter was not played because it became too dark.

The Line Up:

Berkeley Nissei
Y. Tabata, l. e.; S. Hanano, l. t.; M. Murayama, l. g.; Asada, c.; Tsukamoto, r. g.; M. Harano, r. t.; Kawanami, Oda, Yamamoto r. e.; Taku-

Walnut Grove Man In Death Plunge Into Sac'to River

WALNUT GROVE, Nov. 14.—(Special)—Unable to control his automobile as it rolled into the swift current of the Sacramento River at the Ryer Island ferry pier, Toyokichi Mayeda, 48, was drowned last night about five o'clock. His body was recovered about ten o'clock this morning.

Mayeda, who was a prominent fish merchant of this city, was driving his automobile on the ferry to cross from the mainland to the Ryer Island, when the machine plunged uncontrollably into the water. He leaves a wife and several children. His funeral will probably be held tomorrow.

ROTARY MAN S. F. GUEST

President Sutton Returns from Tokyo Conference

Fests ranging from choice Oriental jewelry to lengthy long-hand scrolls and an ancient Korean ceremonial drum filled the trunks and 12 packing cases when I. B. Sutton, of Mexico City and President of the International Rotary Conference, concluded his stay in Japan for the international convention.

Mrs. Sutton and daughter arrived with a Rotary party Monday on the N. Y. K. liner Taiyo Maru.

"Rotary holds an esteemed place in Japan," said the international president as he recounted his experiences of the last few weeks. Following a radio address on Rotary Mr. Sutton received more than 1000 testimonial letters from Japanese. Many of these were in long-hand on scrolls three feet long. One gift came from Prince Kuni, father of Japan's Empress.

Dr. Murai United to Miss Nakazawa In Hawaii

MOSCOW, Oct. 25.—(By Mail)—In the presence of Tokichi Tanaka Japanese ambassador to Moscow; members of the Japanese Embassy; responsible members of the Foreign Commissariat, and several representatives of pedagogical organizations, the inauguration took place here recently of an exhibition of Japanese children's books and art.

Mr. Kamenev, chairman of the Foreign Culture Society, pointed out in her speech that, following the recent visit of Kabuki actors to Russia, the children's exhibition would contribute much towards the cultural rapprochement between Japan and the USSR.

M. Kogan, President of the Academy of Art and Science, emphasized the artistic brilliancy of the exhibition, pointing out that the Academy would devote a special session to studying Japanese children's art.

ma presided Wakaichi Yamashita welcomed the guests on behalf of the bridegroom's family. Masataro Saki, representing the Otakelinkai, Dr. T. Komura, representing the dentists, T. Yamagata, representing the couple's young friends, and K. Yoshiyama, representing the friends of the groom, made congratulatory speeches. Hajime Nakazawa responded on behalf of the bride's family.

Miss Mitsuko Takahara and Taiichi Matsuno offered vocal duets and R. S. Komenska vocal solos.

The newly married couple received congratulations from the mainland friends.

Sacramento Child Hurts To Death From Second Story

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 14.—(Special)—Little Teruki Obata, two-year-old daughter of Jutaro Obata, manager of the local De Monte boarding house on I Street, fell from the second story of her home Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock and crushed her head against the concrete walk 30 feet below. The child was immediately taken to the Sister's Hospital, where she died 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day. The funeral will be held at the Buddhist Church Thursday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

The lecture is being sponsored by the newly organized New American Citizens' League. Miss Ichikawa will speak on some phases of the women's movement in Japan, and all second generation girls are particularly urged to attend this educational talk. Men are also invited.

JAPAN RULER CROWNED IN OLD STYLE

Hailed As Most Progressive Monarch In All Asia

By MAX STERN

Japan, like America, this week is preparing itself for a new ruler.

Inducted into his high office with ceremonies as old as Christianity, the young Emperor of Shwa ("Radiant Peace"), represents to Japan what Hoover does to America—the last word in modernism. Although the clock is being turned back 2000 years to crown him under ancient customs, the new Emperor is said to be the most progressive ruler of Asia's most progressive nation.

Here is the sort of ruler Japan is crowning, according to Prof. Harold W. Hackett of Kobe College for girls, recently arrived from the Flower Kingdom, and staying at the Hotel Stewart.

Hirohito is 27 years old. Since his graduation from grammar school he has been undergoing an elaborate course under a special council of tutors in ethics, history, geography, Japanese and Chinese classics, science, economics, physical training and French. Especially has he been trained in "Kodo," the science of Emperorship. This, briefly, teaches him to be just and generous to the people, devoted to the ideals of simplicity, purity and righteousness.

READS 26 NEWSPAPERS

The new Emperor went Europe in 1922 and was greatly impressed by the simplicity of the British Court and the growing influences of the common people. On his return he found his own nation had increased its manhood suffrage from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000.

The routine of the new ruler is as follows: Rises at 6 and goes home to his ancestors after the Shinto custom. Breakfasts at 7:30. Reads 26 newspapers, which he asks to be presented to him unmarked. The papers are in Japanese and French. From 10 to 12 is at his office in the palace, and again from 1 to 2:30. Then daily exercise, and then from 4 to 6 at the office. He spends his evenings at home with the press. Retires at 10. He neither smokes nor drinks. He wears a $6.50 watch.

STUDENT OF BOTANY

He is a young man of great dignity and self-control. This was shown when, in 1922 he was shot at while driving to open the Diet session. He proceeded to the Diet after the shooting as if nothing had happened. He is a student of zoology and botany and conducts experiments in pearl culture and rice-growing in his own private laboratory.

Tomi Yatabe, who lives in San Francisco, writes:

I vote for the morning glory because it is the symbol of our ever-growing Junior Club. The morning glory is always climbing up and growing bigger; that is what the Junior Club is doing. Besides, they are very beautiful.

We had morning glories blooming in our garden this summer. Ours were dark purple and as in reflective mood—at least so it appears to me. Five days ago this city was in gala display, and the whole citizenry was out to commemorate the great occasion, officially called the Double Tenth Festival because it fell on the tenth day of the tenth month—October 10. On that day just seventeen years ago the revolutionaries struck the first blow which, in an amazingly short time, sent the Manchu dynasty to its doom.

But this year the Double Tenth day is of greater significance than any of the preceding ones. The Nationalists had successfully completed their "northern punitive" expedition, and had brought about at least a semblance of national unification. BY K. K. KAWAKAMI

NANKING, Oct. 15.—Today, five days after the festivities of the "Double Tenth" celebration, Nanking, the new capital of the "National Government of the Republic of China," now officially so called, is in reflective mood—at least so it appears to me. Five days ago this city was in gala display, and the whole citizenry was out to commemorate the great occasion, officially called the Double Tenth Festival because it fell on the tenth day of the tenth month—October 10. On that day just seventeen years ago the revolutionaries struck the first blow which, in an amazingly short time, sent the Manchu dynasty to its doom.

But this year the Double Tenth day is of greater significance than any of the preceding ones. The Nationalists had successfully completed their "northern punitive" expedition, and had brought about at least a semblance of national unification. They took the occasion of the Double Tenth Festival this year to announce the reorganization of the Nationalist Government upon the basis of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen's "five power" theory, and the inauguration of five councils—

CHINA FACES GIGANTIC TASK OF ORGANIZATION

By K. K. KAWAKAMI

executive, legislative, judiciary, public examination, and supervisory.

Above these councils is a State Council of which Marshal Chiang Kai-shek has been chosen chairman—virtually President of the Chinese Republic. Thus the country has for the first time entered upon what Dr. Sun calls the "Period of Tutelage" preliminary and preparatory to the "Period of Constitutional Government." That is why Nanking made so much of the last national holiday.

But the colours and the lights have faded away, and the Nationalists are settling down to face stern realities, for there is no denying that they are confronted by a most critical situation. Compared with the enormity of the task with which they are now called upon to grapple, their military expedition to the north was an easy job. The governmental reorganization just published is largely a matter of form, and contributes very little towards the vitalization and strengthening of the government itself. By means does it smooth the way of the Nationalists in their endeavour to solve the grave problems before them.

Whatever may be the form of the government at Nanking, China, in reality, is still in a feudalistic state.

The country is divided into spheres of influence, each dominated by a powerful military chieftain.

The force of circumstances has compelled the Nationalists to create and recognize these spheres. Thus Canton is dominated by Li Tsui-shin, Hankow by Li Sung-shin, Peking by Yen Shi-shan, Kaifeng by Feng Yu-hsiang, each controlling a large area.

When the executive committee of the nationalist party met at Nanking last July, the progressive or racial elements of the party endeavoured to bring about the abolition of these political divisions into open discussion.

But Chiang Kai-shek and his conservative colleagues adroitly dodged the question as they knew that the issue, if discussed at that time, would disrupt the nationalist party.

There is no prospect that this condition will necessarily improve in the near future.
