So This Is Venice

Venice, of all cities, was visited by a heavy snowfall during the worst winter Europe has had in years and canal transportation was so tied up that travelers had to go on foot along the banks.

Germany in Record Cold Spell

Germany has just experienced its most frigid weather in 200 years. Above, ships frozen solid in the canal at Holtenuau. Below, the passengers on a trans-ocean vessel forced to leave for shore by a ladder over the side. In some cities the temperature fell to 49 degrees below zero.

"Pet Wash Laundry—$.10 a Pound"

Hanging the pups up to dry after they have been rubbed, scrubbed and tubbed in the new Dog and Cat Laundry established at Los Angeles. The pretty assistant is May Betteridge.

Death on Mosquitos

The flower, that is, not Miss Violet Hering who holds it. The darlingtonia or cobra plant, exhibited at the Chicago Garden and Flower Show is a natural insect trap. It is estimated that a single plant will consume 2,000,000 mosquitos in a season.

Bryan's Daughter in Capital

Mrs. Ruth Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, has arrived in Washington to take up her duties as a Representative from Florida. She is shown here with Senator Duncan Fletcher of Florida, veteran who is coaching her in political procedure.

French President

An exclusive photograph of Gaston Doumergue, informally posed in the private Presidential office in Paris.

Bringing the Bad News

The manner of presenting a check for a meal in a fashionable Tokio restaurant. The waitress, bearing a handsome lacquer, falls on her knees before the butter-and-egg customer and, bowing her head to the floor, presents him with the box, which contains the bill. Compare the system with that used in American night clubs.
