HOW NIPPON LOST HAWAII IS REVEALED

Meiji Refused Offer Of Dusky Princess For Japan Court

TOKYO, Japan—How Emperor Meiji barely missed an opportunity to acquire Hawaii through the marriage of a Japanese prince and a Hawaiian princess has been lately revealed.

To the 14th year of Meiji when Kalakaua, King of Hawaii, still reigned and the Hawaiian Islands had not yet become an American possession, the hand of a beautiful Hawaiian princess, a niece of the king was offered in marriage to a Japanese prince and the offer was almost accepted. It was declined at the eleventh hour apparently for no good reason, and thereby Japan lost her opportunity of taking possession of the Paradise of the Pacific to whose shores she was to send a hundred thousand immigrants.

Details of the gracious Hawaiian overture and the views of Emperor Meiji and other members of the Imperial Family regarding the question of a Hawaiian-Japanese union have just been revealed and are presented in this article.

On February 12, 1881 a telegram was received from Minister Yoshida, stationed at Washington, to the effect that King Kalakaua of Hawaii had left San Francisco on the eighth for Japan. He would remain in this country for a fortnight the message added, and that was all the Foreign Office was able to learn regarding the royal visit.

UNOSTENTATIOUS KING

Though taken by surprise and unaware to the purpose of the trip, the Foreign Office and the Imperial Household Department forthwith commenced preparations for the welcoming of the state guest who arrived on these shores on March 4, 1881 aboard the American steamship Oceanic. With him was his suite of about three persons. There was nothing ostentatious about this big game, tanned ruler of the balmy South Sea Islands.

The day following his arrival at Yokohama, the King requested an audience with Emperor Meiji and the latter, equal to the occasion, asked the King over to the Palace the same day. Formalities, as much as possible, were done away with and the Emperor and his host were able to engage in an intimate conversation almost immediately after their first meeting. What they said, however, was translated for neither spoke the language of the other. This, fortunately, did not interfere in getting the two to understand each other perfectly. From the beginning, Emperor Meiji took a liking for the Hawaiian King and the latter was very fond of his Japanese host.

Before many days had passed the King moved from Yokohama to Tokyo, making his residence at the Enryokan near Tsukiji. Here he made frequent visits to the Heigakko at Tsukiji at which institution Prince Yorihito Fushimi was a student. At that time the Prince was 19 years of age, while the King was between 52 and 53.

After frequent meetings, the friendship between the King and Prince Fushimi grew very intimate, the Hawaiian visitor taking an unusual interest in the Japanese youth. In fact, so pleased was King Kalakaua with Prince Fushimi that on his next visit to Emperor Meiji he was a daughter of his niece who was a daughter of his younger sister who, in turn, had married an English nobleman. This Hawaiian Princess was not a dark-skinned girl of the islands but a fair princess who resembled her father more than her mother.

EMPEROR SURPRISED

Emperor Meiji received King Kalakaua's overture with some surprise for although unions between members of two ruling families was common in European countries, this was something foreign to Japan. The matter, however, was not above being given serious consideration for this country was in those early days adopting Western customs and manners with fearful abandon. Why not follow the custom of the European countries in effecting friendly union of members of the ruling families of the various nations?

This question undoubtedly weighed heavily in the mind of Emperor Meiji and at length the Japanese ruler informed King Kalakaua that he would give the question serious consideration. Soon after the visitor took leave, Emperor Meiji called a council of all members of the Imperial House as well as officials of the government.

EMPEROR HESITANT

Those present at the meeting agreed with the Emperor that a union such as that which had just been proposed would mean much to Japan, internationally and that there was little reason to disapprove of such a tie. Thus, it appeared that King Kalakaua's overture would be accepted immediately, and that the way would be paved of

NIPPON NOTE GETS O. K. OF WASHINGTON

Tokyo Interpretation Of Pact Cabled To Other Powers

TOKYO, July 13—Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, has approved the Japanese note on the Kellogg anti-war pact, according to the special cable from Ambassador Katsujii Debutchi to the Foreign Office today.

Stimson not only approved the Japanese interpretation on the much discussed clause, "in the names of the respective people," but he also dispatched requests to all signatories of the treaty to express their approval of Japan's position. Japan's ratification note declares that the clause in question does not apply to that country. This action was made necessary because "in the names of the respective peoples" implies that the sovereignty lies with the people, whereas the treaty-making power nominally of Japan rests with the Emperor alone.

LOCAL Y TO ENJOY CAMP

To Encamp July 29 To August 8 In Legion Memorial Park

This year's Y. M. C. A. camp at American Legion Memorial Park in San Mateo County is by far superior in every respect to those of the past, according to C. Numajiri, associate secretary of the Japanese Y. M. C. A., who has just returned from an inspection trip a few days ago.

Situated in the heart of huge redwood trees that offer refreshing shade to the campers, the ground is equipped with many tents, swimming pools, dining places, and other facilities which make camping a pleasure. An unusually large crowd of "Y" boys will attend this camp this season. There are now 108 members of the San Mateo Y. The Japanese branch will camp there from July 29 to August 8, and applications are now being received.

Non-members are welcome to join, and boys between the age of 9 to 15 are advised to make reservations as soon as possible. The camp can be reached by driving down the Skyline Blvd. and by turning into the woods about seven miles to the left from the bridge on this side of Pescadero.

HONGKONG RAIN

HONGKONG, July 13—Although the authorities maintain that all danger has not yet passed, Hongkong's water famine, the worst in the history of the colony, was believed virtually ended today by almost five inches of rain during the last 4 hours. Reservoirs were rapidly filling up and the public has petitioned the government to permit more generous use of water.

fecting friendly ties with other nations through marriages of members of the Japanese ruling family and those of other countries.

For some reason or other, however, Emperor Meiji became hesitant at the eleventh hour. Commercial relations with foreign countries had only a few years before been entered into and the union of the Japanese ruling family with a foreign house through marriage ties, he felt, was premature, however rapid the country was then being Westernized.

The result was that an answer to King Kalakaua's offer was delayed from day to day until at length, the visitor had to leave these shores. On March 15 Emperor Meiji called on King Kalakaua at the Enryokan and tentatively declined the Hawaiian ruler's offer, and the King left Tokyo via Singapore to Europe. He returned to the Hawaiian Islands in November of the same year.

COURTESIES RETURNED

Shortly after King Kalakaua's arrival in Hawaii, a mission was sent by Emperor Meiji to the islands for the purpose of conveying the Japanese ruler's gratitude for the King's overture and to graciously decline the kind offer. It was explained that the father of Prince Fushimi, Prince Akira Fushimi was an elderly man already in his seventies and that he could not see his son depart for foreign lands.

King Kalakaua regretted that such was the case but assured the Emperor that his friendship towards the Japanese ruler and his people was as warm as it had ever been. As proof of this he opened his country to Japanese immigrants, paid the passage of laborers to the islands and even had homes built for these newcomers at his own expense. Within a few years the islands were dotted with the homes of prosperous Japanese immigrants and before long there were more Japanese people on the islands than persons of all other nationalities, including the Hawaiians themselves, combined.

Drive Against Bad Headlights To Be Started By State

SACRAMENTO, July 13—Driving with glaring or dazzling headlights any place in California will be a misdemeanor when the new motor vehicle act becomes effective August 14th.

The division of motor vehicles announced today that citations would be handed all drivers with such lights after that date and that court appearances would be required. Declaring it is his intention to use the new law as a means of ridding the highways of the glaring lights, Chief Frank G. Snook is preparing to instruct all traffic officers that the new law will be strictly enforced.

CABINET TO BAN GEISHAS

Dancing Girls To Be Forbidden At All Political Meets

TOKYO, July 13—A gallant gesture toward raising the moral tone of the new Liberal administration is seen in the announcement that henceforth all political meetings dining places where there will be no degrading influences of geishas and other public entertainers.

It has been the custom of previous administrations to hold political conferences where geishas (dancing girls) were regarded as a natural part of the entertainment. This widespread custom, which is not only prevalent in political affairs but also in the business as well, tends to degrade the moral tone of society, as it is a continual source of temptation to the weaker elements.

Premier Hamaguchi, the new Liberal leader, is determined to convert the administration of state affairs on a business basis, and crush down the old idea that to discuss politics there must be a dancing and singing accompaniment.

The new administration will also make drastic reduction in the number of governmental officials sent annually to foreign countries for investigations, conferences, etc. The Premier believes that the financial crisis of the country demands a thorough-going economy, and the annual flow of money to foreign countries in these official investigations is out of proportion to the benefits derived from them.

TROOPS SET FOR CHINA-RED CLASH SAYS REPORT

MOSCOW, July 13—Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said in reports published today that Manchurian troops had advanced to "the very frontier" of eastern Siberia and Manchuria.

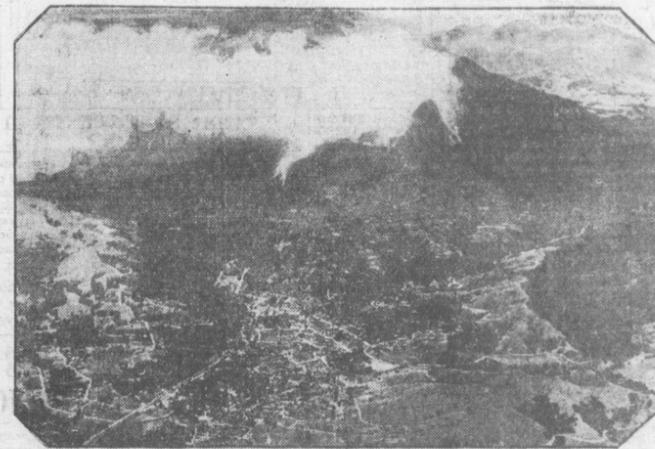

The Manchurian troops were said to include well-armed Russian White Guards. The dispatches carried advice of seizure by Chinese officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

There was no mention in the dispatches of Soviet military activity. A Harbin dispatches to Rengo Japanese news agency, said Soviet troops had mobilized on the eastern Siberian frontier.

The report adds that the Chinese have arrested forty Soviet railway workers. Liu Chun Chan ordered Emshonov manager of the Chinese Eastern Railway, to hand over the management to the Chinese appointees. Emshonov, on his refusal to grant the request, was removed, together with his aide, and replaced by Chinese officials.

TOKYO, July 13—Rengo dispatches from Harbin, stating that L. A. Serebrenkov was flying from Moscow to Manchuria to seek settlement of the new Sino-Russian crisis, have served to allay much anxiety over

CLUB OPENS SWIM CLASS

Local Swimmers Will Practice Sunday At Sutro Tank

"They Float! They are 99.4 per cent, pure swimmers."

Such is the actual record attained at Sutro tank Friday night when instructions in swimming were given to the members of the Showa Athletic Club in conformity with the slogan of the previous meeting—"Every member a swimmer."

With the single exception of a track star now out of town, all Showa football players, boxers and tracksters became successful swimmers in the short time allowed, to achieve the unique distinction.

Following this announcement, a report was received from the National Red Cross Life Saving department that another examiner, formerly instructor at Lake Geneva Station, will be added on the staff of the Showa Club.

This makes the instruction of the Showa Life Saving Corp one of the few in the United States to be headed by a master-swimmer examiner with the assistance of more than two Red Cross examiners.

The class for non-members will commence Sunday morning, seven o'clock at Sutro tank. Twenty girls and 9 boys are enrolled in the beginners' classes. In spite of all controversies against it, the American crawl will be taught to beginners, as this method was proven the most successful one among the younger Japanese. Classes for advanced swimmers will be held on Monday and Friday and Sunday afternoon.
