FORMAL SUIT IS REQUIRED AT S.F. BALL

Program Announced For Reception at Fairmont Hotel

Either a full formal dress suit or a tuxedo will be required of all male guests at the brilliant reception and ball to be given on the evening of August 19 at the Fairmont Hotel. In honor of the officers and midshipmen of the Imperial Japanese training squadron, it was announced yesterday by Minoru Ino, secretary to Consul General Iida.

For the girls either a decolete dress or evening gown is required. The invitation should be presented when requested.

The tentative program for the evening follows:

The reception opens at 8:30 o'clock, and at 9:15 there will be a brief speech in toast to the President of the United States by Morioka Iida, consul general of Japan. The orchestra will next play the American national anthem. Vice Admiral Bostwick, U. S. N., commander of battleship division, battleship fleet, will next propose a toast to His Majesty the Emperor of Japan.

The Japanese national anthem will be played by the orchestra. This will be followed by a welcome address by James Ralph Jr., mayor of San Francisco. Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, commander of the training squadron, will make the response in behalf of the honor guests.

The rest of the evening will be devoted to dancing. Refreshments will be served.

Citizens Protest Against Ruining Japanese Relics

2. The Tenganon gate—storm center of this issue—retaining the original exquisite architectural style of the Tempyo Period, like the Shoshoin museum, is not only among the oldest and most stately specimens of VIIIth century architecture, but one that enhances the beauty of Nara park, but if the proposed highway flanks the eastern side of the gate, it will not only diminish its beauty and its scheme, but will hamper its use as the main entrance of the Shoshoin temple.

3. The YAKEMON GATE

3. The Yakenon gate is scarcely less important than the Tenganon gate, in that it typifies the ancient town planning scheme of the Tempyo Period, together with the Seidai-mon that guards the immediate approach to the temple compound. Furthermore these gates bear the inscriptions of the Emperor Shomu. Any attempt to isolate these gates is objectionable, on the ground that it would impair the national morale.

4. The Hannayji temple likewise is exceedingly important, having been founded at the beginning of the Nara court, and therefore the compound must be retained intact, including the tile-roofed clay fences—to say nothing of the indesirability of having a highway penetrate the compound.

5. THE VERY LIFE OF NARA

5. Historical relics, plus natural scenery, are the very life of Nara, of which it cannot be too proud or grateful, and therefore it would do well to preserve them well, while in the event of the proposed highway reducing or impairing any of them even in the slightest degree, Nara will become the laughing-stock of the world.

U. S. Wins Trophy As Upton Close's Tour Party Members Hold Oratorical Contest With Students of Nippon

TOKYO, July 19.—(By Mail)—The speaking team of the Upton Close Student Expedition defeated the Japanese student orators in an English Oratorical contest held at the Nihon Seinen Kan, Aoyama, on Thursday evening. The affair was held under the auspices of the Inter-Collegiate Federation of English Speaking Societies of Japan. Professor Kentaro Omiya acting as chairman. The entire lower floor of the auditorium was filled with 110 members of the touring American men and women students, and by Japanese colleagues of both sexes.

TEN SPEECHES

Ten speeches were made in all, each side being represented by five speakers. The Japan Times Cup was given to the American team, while first medal went to Chester Williams (A) for his oration on "Pacific Student Cooperation," second place to Seitaro Ishii (J) for his speech on "Our Mutual Moral Obligations," which won prolonged applause, and third medal to Miss Fumiko Salaho, a student of Tsuda College, Tokyo, for her speech on "The Women of Japan Today."

The contest was considered to be the most thoughtful of the speeches. Honorable mention was given to Ronald Anderson and Miss Viola Fay of the American Team.

JUDGES

The opening address was made by M. Zunoto, proprietor of the Herald of Asia and well known Japanese publicist, who also acted as one of the judges, the others being Messrs. Burton Crane of The Japan Advertiser, Munro B. Hall of the American Embassy, Ken Tsurumi of the Foreign Office and Yoshio Nitobe of The Japan Times.

After the contest Upton Close (Johel Washington Hall), leader of the student party, spoke stating that he regretted that the American speakers had not had more time to prepare and expressing appreciation for the hospitality of the Japanese students. A photograph was then taken of the Japanese and American student bodies and tea served, the Inter-Collegiate Federation acting as hosts.

ON TOUR

The Upton Close Oriental Expedition which arrived on Wednesday, went to Kamakura soon after they landed and spent their first night there. They returned to Tokyo on Thursday where they broke up into four groups, according to their interests.

Groups A and B were entertained on Thursday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at tea by the Minister of Education. At the same hour groups C and D were entertained by the Minister of Commerce.

Thursday evening all four groups attended the international oratorical contest at the Nihon Sei Nen Kan. This morning the entire company were free to go where they pleased at two o'clock this afternoon, all four groups went to Nikko.

to the effect that the proposed highway can be cut so that with proper discretion, it would in no way endanger the historical relics, is absolutely worthless. The ends of the proposed highway can be served just as well, or better, by changing the route to the Horen section. In consideration whereof, we could ask you to reconsider the route of the highway.

THE WEATHER

San Francisco and bay region: Fair and mild with fog at night; gentle westerly winds.

S. J. CHILD, 2, CRUSHED BY BIG TRACTOR

Sleeping Tot, Asako Mukai, Killed in Farm Mishap

SPECIAL TO THE JAPANESE AMERICAN NEWS

SAN JOSE, Aug. 10.—Two-year-old Asako Mukai, second daughter of a farmer at the Coyote Berry Farm, met a tragic death Friday afternoon under the wheels of a huge tractor operated by Mr. Sugioka.

A touch of irony is disclosed in this accident, which occurred while Sugioka was tilling the soil with a heavy farm tractor. Observing a baby buggy lying under an oak tree on his path, and believing the child to be safely sleeping within it, he carefully swerved the tractor aside, when unwittingly he crushed the child, who was asleep on the ground. When he realized what had happened, he slammed on the emergency brake, but his efforts proved futile as the heavy wheels had already crushed the child.

The child was already dead when she was brought to the nearest hospital. It is thought that Sugioka, seated far behind the engine of the tractor, was unable to observe the child in time to prevent the accident.

Dr. Eckener Will Fly Zep to Tokyo For Globe Flight

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 10.—"Our world trip to Tokyo will be resumed in about four days, but not before Wednesday," Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, told International News Service this afternoon.

Japanese Youth In Vancouver Snatches Junior Net Crown

SPECIAL TO THE JAPANESE AMERICAN NEWS

VANCOUVER, Aug. 10.—George Yoshie, 17-year-old Japanese youth and member of the local Japanese tennis club here, on July 17 won the British Columbia Junior Tennis Championship, by mowing down his opponent in straight sets, in this final held at Victoria.

This is the first time that a resident Japanese in Canada has ever made his presence felt in Canadian tennis circles to such a marked degree. George was born in Canada and is at present student of the British Columbia University. He had won, in addition, the Vancouver Junior tennis championship to his credit.

N. Y. BANK'S ACT CAUSES YEN TO FALL

Panicky Market Blow To Raising of Ban On Gold Embargo

SPECIAL TO THE JAPANESE AMERICAN NEWS

TOKYO, Aug. 10.—The Tokyo foreign exchange market is today in a panicky state, with the Japanese yen falling by two points at one jump after it had experienced a continuous rise for the past two months. The crisis today came upon the heels of the New York Federal Reserve Bank's decision yesterday to raise the discount rate on foreign drafts to six per cent.

Although the action of the Federal Reserve Bank was aimed at discouraging the speculative fever, its influence threatened to temporarily demoralize the money market here and is regarded as a temporary blow to Japan's program for lifting the ban on gold embargo.

OPTIMISTIC

Jumonoske Inouye, Minister of Finance, who is regarded as the financial wizard in the new Liberal Cabinet of Premier Hamaguchi, today expressed extreme optimism concerning the present monetary fluctuation. He contended that the Federal Reserve Bank will eventually be forced to reserve its action. Despite the rising of discount rate on foreign exchange draft, high interest rate on call money in New York will compel idle money in Europe naturally to flow to America where it can be put to productive use. The consequent flooding of the New York market will make the reversal of the Federal Reserve Bank's recent decision inevitable, it was contended by Inouye.

NOT SERIOUS

Inouye further declared that the present situation will not seriously affect the Japanese government's program for lifting the ban on gold shipment shortly. Japan, through stringent economic retrenchment, is paying the way for the yen to reach its normal value. With this affected, the new Cabinet will lift the embargo on the gold and thus bring international commerce for Japan on a normal plane. Japan is the only one of first-class powers that has not yet cancelled this wartime measure.

HAMAGUCHI BUYS VILLA

Handsome Manison Is Located at Kamakura Resort

SPECIAL TO THE JAPANESE AMERICAN NEWS

TOKYO, Aug. 10.—Yuko Hamaguchi, the new Japanese Liberal Premier, has acquired a stately mansion for his summer home at Kamakura, a seaside resort, it was revealed today.

The estate covers about an acre of ground (4000 tsubo), and the building is a two-story affair with seven rooms in the upper story and twelve in the ground floor. It is breathed in the hostile camps here that this somewhat pretentious mansion does not fit well with Hamaguchi's economic policy.

When he took over the office of the Premier, Ex-premier Giichi Tanaka had advised him to acquire a villa at Kamakura where he may spend his week-ends for recreation. Hamaguchi sought to follow this suggestion but was unable to acquire a suitable mansion until this time. An offer by Baron Iwasaki, Japan's greatest money baron, for the use of his summer villa was refused by Hamaguchi.

We are students. We want to study Japan. With open minds and open eyes we want to learn Japanese views of America.

OAKLAND TO FETE YOUTH

Aoki Will Leave for Nippon On Shinyo Maru Wednesday

SPECIAL TO THE JAPANESE AMERICAN NEWS

OAKLAND, Aug. 10.—Members of the local Japanese Methodist Church will tender a farewell reception in honor of Shigeo Aoki, a prominent leader of the church, Sunday evening in the social room. The party starts at eight o'clock.

Mr. Aoki will leave for Japan aboard the N.Y.K. liner Shinyo Maru on August 14. A graduate of the University of California, he expects to teach at the Aoyama Gakuin, a Methodist college in Tokyo.

A native of Oakland, where he has been prominent in the second generation circle, the young progressive professor is well known to a host of friends of the Bay district who are expected to give him a hearty send-off when the ship departs on Wednesday.

BOXER LOST BY DECISION

Local Papers Support Kimura As He Loses To John Norman

Q. Kimura, a favorite Japanese boxer, was deprived of a decision over his opponent, John Norman, in a six-round bout at the Dreamland auditorium Friday night.

The snappy Japanese leather-pusher out-fought Norman through the six rounds, and the decision came as a surprise to the spectators. The San Francisco Chronicle in the issue of the following morning declares that "the decision was unearned."

Others newspapers are almost unanimous in denouncing Referee Joe Gorman's unsatisfactory decision. The San Francisco News says that Kimura out-fought and out-pointed Norman in five rounds, and the referee raised the wrong arm when he awarded the decision to Norman.

This was the third time that the two boxers met, each having scored a victory over the other in the past bouts.

Stories of Tong War Harmful to S. F. Chinatown

Chinese residents of San Francisco have a movement under way to "debunk" their Chinatown.

Leading Chinese are tired of magazine stories, motion pictures and the misrepresentations of guides who conduct tourists through the Chinese quarter which depict it as a center of tong wars, opium spees and other sinister activities.

The motion pictures especially have done much recently to arouse the ire of those who do not care to have their Chinatown misrepresented. Since the advent of the "talkies" two highly advertised pictures have been released which might cause the uninitiated to believe that the city's Chinese district is a nest of gangsters, opium smugglers, and even worse.

Both these sound pictures were taken in Chinatown itself and many scenes show buildings and landmarks that could easily be recognized by a visitor who first sees the pictures and then the Chinese district, and thus the visitors might be led to believe that the super-dramatic movies might depict some element of truth, according to the leaders of the "debunking" campaign.

TOO MUCH IMAGINATION

Prominent among these leaders is Toy Y. Lowe, manager of a leading Chinatown mercantile establishment and vice-president of the Loung Kong Tien Yee, or Four Families Club, one of the leading national Chinese societies. As a first step he had the Four Families Club, the Six Companies and other societies that control the show places of Chinatown bar parties conducted by guides. The guides, he contends, draw too heavily on their imaginations in their "spiel" to the extent of describing innocent business houses and clubs as opium dens and vice resorts.

MISREPRESENTED

"Here is an instance," explained Mr. Lowe. "There are dozens of little shops with blinds drawn along the streets of Chinatown. I heard a guide, one of those licensed by the city, tell a party that one of these shops was an opium den. As a matter of fact, the shop he pointed out is an importing and exporting firm that does a million dollars a year business."

Mr. Lowe admitted that there was a time, before the San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906, when Chinatown had its sinister side, with its tong wars, subterranean prisons and passage ways, opium dens and smuggling rings, but said as it might be to the viewpoint of the imaginative visitors none of these things exist today.

"Chinatown is now simply a district where industrious, sober Chinese live and work," said Mrs. Lowe. "We have fewer unemployed, fewer criminals, fewer drug addicts, than some other sections of the city. And, like the rest of the city, we

Men In China Gets 'Equal Right' To Procure Alimony

PEIPING, Aug. 19.—(UP)—Chinese husbands will have the right to sue their errant wives for alimony, and will have just as much chance of getting a living allowance as will the wives themselves.

This is the interpretation put upon the new law concerning "equal rights for women," soon to be promulgated, by Wei Tao-Min, acting director of the Judicial Board at Nanking, in an interview quoted by the Kuo-Wei News agency here.

"If we are to have equal rights in China, we will have them absolutely equal," Wei is quoted as saying. "The men will have the same rights as the women, the women the same as the men. Since wives can sue for alimony, there is no reason why husbands should not have the same privilege."

Wei added that the new law will permit the judge to decide alimony on the basis of culpability. If the wife is wrong she pays alimony. If the husband is wrong, he pays.

live in apartments instead of dark lodgings, we have automobiles, radios and vacuum cleaners—and we buy some of them on the installment plan."

The guides who conduct parties of visitors through Chinatown get their licenses from the chief of police. One of them was asked whether Lowe's statements were true.

"Well, maybe," he replied, "but the suckers ain't looking for a quiet, peaceful Chinatown. We give 'em what they want. What difference does it make anyhow?"—(UP).

Purpose of Tour By Nichibe Club Told In Yokohama

YOKOHAMA, July 20.—(By Mail)

—Headed by George C. Lorbeer, a party of seventeen members of the Nichi-Bel Club (Japan-America Society) of the Lowell High School of San Francisco arrived at this port aboard the N.Y.K. liner Talyo Maru yesterday morning.

Aboard the ship Mr. Lorbeer gave the preliminary of the following statement: "We are making this trip to Japan utilizing nearly $1000 out of our own pockets. Why? Because sincerity.

A GREAT DEBATOR

Mr. Wakatsuki is the most eloquent statesman in this country and no one can beat him in a debate; but somehow his bearers feel that there is some sophistry behind his eloquence. This is why his political enemies used to call him "tsutsuki" or liar. But the truth is that Mr. Wakatsuki does not tell any lie, but he only presents his case in such a way that it is almost impossible for his opponents to refuse him.

On the other hand, Mr. Hamaguchi is also a remarkable debator. But his hearers get better impressions as compared with Mr. Wakatsuki probably because his tone is grave and his appearance is serious without affectation. The general public in any country is more or less impressionists and intuitive. Confucius says that smooth words and good looks are not the signs of sincerity, and you bet your boots that the new Premier of this country is not a Valentinio.

But let us peep into the institutional background of Mr. Hamaguchi's political position. That he is the chief of the party, he would have been called upon to succeed Baron Tanaka.
