SHOTWELL IN TOKIO TALKS ON INSTITUTE

Manchuria Situation
Chief Topic Says
U. S. Delegate

TOKYO, Sept. 28—From the viewpoint and interest of students of political and social science the forthcoming conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations at Kyoto in October the most important problems for study and research will include tariff conditions, the Manchurian situation as a result of the recent Sino-Russian affair, and the industrialization of the Orient, in the opinion of Dr. James T. Shotwell, who arrived here recently.

Dr. Shotwell, accompanied by Mr. Chester A. Rowell, journalist, have come in advance of the others who will attend the conference, as they desire to visit China and Manchuria. However, Dr. Shotwell is assembling the material which affects his committee which deals with research on international problems. The seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway occurred after the conference program had been mapped out and he explained that, since the Institute deals not so much with temporary events as with studying the background of political and international problems, the Sino-Russian affair would probably be handled in an informal way among members particularly interested in the present problem, rather than be included for general discussion by the entire conference.

THE HARBIN TROUBLE

In discussing the Harbin trouble he took occasion to indicate the relationship it had with the Kellogg Pact, which Dr. Shotwell stated "was incomplete in the sense that the pact lacked a definition of the kind of war that is forbidden. If you leave the events to be pushed by frontiersmen of the contending nations, then frequent disturbances generally lead to war. There should be some type of juristic frontiersmen to handle such situations which the Kellogg Pact does not cover."

"Unless there is a recognized willingness to have a conference between the two contending parties, or unless they will agree to mediate, then matters are not likely to be quickly or amicably settled. The event must be clarified by the willingness to accept some Pacific means of settlement. Reaching a pacific means is a delicate situation, so we must find more than just arbitration to settle such conditions as have arisen between China and Russia. Fortunately, the Four-Power Pact as it operates in the Pacific already arranges to handle a certain limited number of questions."

TO HAVE 2 SECTIONS

He explained that the Institute which meets in Kyoto has two sections—one of which is in the form of a conference meeting every two years and the other in the form of a group direction of Dr. Kemmerer. Since Dr. Kemmerer's work is unfinished it is not possible to advance any theories or statements on the outcome of his findings. China's adjustments to new social conditions also calls for much study, he stated.

In view of the variety of the type of men who will be attending the conference Dr. Shotwell expects there will be an interesting discussion of Japan's industrialization, since there will be professors and students of social science and business men and employers of labor, interested in discussing wage scales, working hours and general labor conditions.

FROM COLUMBIA

Dr. Shotwell has been on leave of absence from Columbia University, New York City since the world war. He is a director of the research of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and in addition to many problems of political and social science which he is directing in many parts of the world, his biggest job is the compilation of 150 volumes on the economic and social effects of the World War. He has crossed the Atlantic Ocean 30 times, but this is his first trip to the Orient, which will bring him in contact with Japanese Chinese colleagues who are working on problems that affect his committee. He appeared highly enthusiastic at the opportunity of studying conditions in the Orient at first hand.

Shigeru Saito in
L. A. on Visit to His Sick Father

Special to The Japanese American News

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28—With his father on way to recovery from a relapse, Shigeru Saito, popular U. C. Student summoned to his father's bed-side, here, will return to San Francisco on Sunday.

Saito left San Francisco early this week due to his father's critical condition in Los Angeles where the father had been convalescing for some time.

Shigemitsu Saito, Shigeru's father, is a former secretary of the S. F. Japanese Association.

Some difficulty was experienced in determining on a proper subject for the new painting. Originally Himeji Castle was chosen, but this was discarded because the castle stands inland and no water could be induced.

After conferences between the art-and Government officials the castle at Himeji was chosen, it stands on a cliff overlooking the placid waters of Lake Biwa, is considered an excellent example of Japanese castle architecture and presents a strikingly picturesque scene.

Mr. Wada will make an extensive trip of the Lake Biwa district before starting his work. The painting

will be 12 feet long and eight feet

and a half high.

$4,500 Love Suit Among Japanese Is Revealed by Paper

A love suit involving three local Japanese persons was reported in the Saturday edition of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin.

The item follows:

Harushige Okamura, Japanese merchant values his wife's love at exactly $4,500. He has a suit for this amount on file against Isamu Doi, another Japanese.

It is charged in the alienation of affection suit that Okamura and his wife lived happily from November 10, 1919, to February 27, 1929, when Doi, it is asserted, "wickedly, cunningly, slyly and purposely" won away the affections of Mrs. Okamura "by unusual methods such as offering her money, presents and by wiles."

This is the first alienation of affection suit involving Japanese to be filed in San Francisco.

NIKKO'S MAGNIFICENCE IS PRAISED BY NOTED AUTHOR

BY CHESTER ROWELL
In the San Francisco Chronicle

Nikko mirumade kekko to ya na, the Japanese say—until you have seen Nikko do not say splendid. Yet the emphasis must sometimes be on the "see." Are you one who can not see beauty unless you also feel comfort? Then consult the weather man before you go to Nikko. For one reason why Nikko is one of the loveliest spots in Japan is that it is always a rainest. So the price of seeing its splendors is often slipping through its mud in the rain. Whether that is a high or a low price depends on you.

While this will be Mr. Hamaguchi's private possession, Mr. Wada will likewise be charged with executing a new painting to permanently in the reception room of the Premier's official residence.

The painting which was originally placed there is objected to on the ground that it was bought after it had been painted and was not expressly ordered. This is thought to be out of keeping with the dignity of the mansion.

This painting, which already has suffered the ignominy of retirement to the storeroom of the Ministry of Education, is also the work of Mr. Wada.

Some difficulty was experienced in determining on a proper subject for the new painting. Originally Himeji Castle was chosen, but this was discarded because the castle stands inland and no water could be induced.

After conferences between the art- and Government officials the castle at Himeji was chosen, it stands on a cliff overlooking the placid waters of Lake Biwa, is considered an excellent example of Japanese castle architecture and presents a strikingly picturesque scene.

Mr. Wada will make an extensive trip of the Lake Biwa district before starting his work. The painting

will be 12 feet long and eight feet

and a half high.

Japanese Plans to Fly from Honolulu To Tokyo in Spring

An all-Japanese attempt to span the Pacific by air lanes will be made next spring, it was announced here Friday by Harry Y. Sanada, Japanese aviator, who arrived aboard the N. Y. K. Liner Kore Maru to report that the Land of the Rising Sun is the "big field" today for such products.

"The movies have opened the field," said Miss Kunie, "and the Japanese girl is just as anxious to gain the attention of the male as the American girl.

Rice powder was the traditional and sole factor of make-up in years gone by, but the women of Japan have seen too many motion pictures of American make in which the lipstick, creams and other preparations were used."

completion will be formally celebrated sometime next March or April.

Sanada plans to fly from Honolulu to Yokohama in a seaplane. He will take with him two of his countrymen who have not yet been selected. Sanada will also act as navigator for the voyage.

Sanada explained his plans to visit Los Angeles, New York and other eastern aviation centers, later going to London, Paris and Berlin to see what Europe has to offer.

Answer to Thomas' riddle: A Watermelon.

Dear Junior Editor:

Will you do me a favor? Please find the address of Masako Hirozawa who lives in Salinas?

Junior

(It is R. 1, Box 170, Salinas, Calif., Mary.—Ed.)

Here is a joke:

Customer: Let me try on that suit in the window?

Clerk: Sorry, sir, but that is not allowed. You'll have to use the dressing room.

Your old member, Mary Nishiyama, P. O. Box 168, Coyote, California.

Junior

Mary, will you ask Jane to send us her age, birthday, and grade in school? Something has happened to her card.

Thomas Inuzuka, who wrote that story that was printed yesterday, sent us this riddle:

Green outside, red inside, little black things inside the red. What is it?

Junior

Please, everybody, send letters, jokes, riddles, short stories, poems and other writings SOON.
