U. S. BAN NOT DEAD ISSUE FOR NIPPON

Writer Believes Move by Washington May Be Necessary

By WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMMS
In the S. F. News

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The ban on Japanese immigration established five years ago is far from being a dead issue, despite what appears to be the growing impression on Capitol Hill.

That the subject should be discussed before the Institute of Pacific Relations now in session in Kyoto, Japan, with a full delegation of Americans in attendance, was inevitable. In a significant message to the gathering from Viscount Shibusawa, whose illness prevents him from being present, he said:

"The controversy arising from American immigration legislation in 1924 is not closed. The would so needlessly inflicted on our national honor is still open and will remain open until the matter is rightly settled.

"I think it is necessary to make this plain statement," the aged visitor explained, "because there seems to be an impression in America that the incident is as good as forgotten in Japan."

Viscount Eichi Shibusawa, "grand old man" of Japan, is now nearing his 90th birthday. He has the reputation of being one of the best friends America has in the Far East and he has visited this country, where he was greatly feted.

Like Secy. Andrew Mellon, the viscount is a businessman, banker and multimillionaire, but served his country as a high official of the treasury during the early years of the restoration. The very antithesis of a jingo, and having devoted many of his best years to creating a more friendly sentiment in this country for the United States, his words may well be taken at their face value.

The Japanese feel they should be placed on a quota basis like other peoples. They claim that under the existing quota law only about 150 of them could be admitted every year, and that this number is an infinitesimally small compared with our enormous population it could not possibly have any visible effect on our standard of living, or on any of our social, economic or other institutions.

Officially the attitude of the Japanese government is one of watchful waiting. For the moment no diplomatic moves with a view to reopening the question are contemplated. What is ardently hoped, however, is that the government at Washington will, of its own accord, see fit to treat Japan as it is treating other advanced civilizations and thus remove what every Japanese feels to be a standing reflection on his race.

Upon leaving America for the Orient last summer, I asked one of the most prominent members of the Senate foreign relations committee if he felt Congress might take such a step. In substance his reply was: "I certainly see no signs of such a thing at present. Anyway, it seems to me that if possible the whole matter should be left just where it is."

This is the attitude which Viscount Shibusawa referred in his message to the Institute of Pacific Relations. Eventually, unless the United States of its own volition finds a satisfactory solution, this issue directly touching the national honor, as the Japanese view it, will bob up again to make fresh trouble between the two countries.

Isleton Aoba Club Will Sponsor Party For Former Members

ISLETON, Oct. 31.—To honor its former members the Aoba Club of this city will stage a wassai roast on Friday night, Nov. 1. Miss Marian Smith, a popular local girl, will act as the chairman.

There will be a series of games to absorb the interest of the party for the larger part of the evening. Refreshments will be furnished. George Iki will head the firewood committee. A large number of young people is anticipated at this party.

Outstanding Nippon Kabuki Stars May Present Plays in U. S. Under Sponsorship of Santa Barbara Man

TOKYO, Oct. 31.—Koshiro Matsumoto and Kanya Morita, reputed actors of the old school, may visit America to present classical Japanese plays there with a company of about 40 actors, if the arrangement now being made for their visit is successfully concluded.

Henry Eihim, a multi-millionaire of Santa Barbara, Cal., who came to this country in October last year on a pleasure trip, was exceedingly charmed by Japanese classical plays, and intimated his wishes through Mrs. Z. Pennington in Tokyo to engage a company of actors to be headed by Koshiro Matsumoto.

At that time Koshiro did not give his consent, but Mrs. Pennington, a dramatic critic, who is going to visit America soon, approached the Imperial Theater with the proposal again, and obtained a reply that the Imperial Theater may accept the request if the said American millionaire agrees to pay the expenses of from $150,000 to $200,000.

Accordingly Mrs. Pennington is now communicating with Mr. Eihim. Mr. Yamamoto, managing director of the Imperial Theater said in this connection that Koshiro and Kanya are anxious to visit America to introduce Japanese classical plays, but that he doubts if Mr. Eihim will agree to pay the required expenses.

OROSI FETES MEIJI SETSU

Two Gakuens to Stage Sport Tournament This Sunday

DINUBA, Oct. 31.—The Japanese language schools of Dinuba and Orosi will sponsor a play day at Orosi Gakuen ground on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3, from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

The Rev. Mr. Oishi, who is the superintendent of both schools, has completed an interesting program of sport events for the day, including running, baseball, volleyball, and other individual and team contests in which both schools will vie for honors.

This field day is staged for the purpose of celebrating the "Meiji Setsu," a Japanese festival day. The general public is welcome.

If the day proves rainy, the affair will be held in the gymnasium.

NYK's New Liner Stirs Interest of Shippers in L. A.

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 31.—Japan's greatest liner, the motor driven Asama Maru, today was the source of interest among shipping men and ship agents at the Los Angeles harbor.

The liner, recently built for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha line, cut an entire day off her schedule in her run across the Pacific arriving here yesterday. She was constructed at a cost of more than $6,000,000 and is said to be one of the finest and most luxurious liners now in service between the United States and the Orient.

Four Sulzer-Diesel engines developing 16,000 horse-power, provide the motive power. The ship, which will accommodate 839 passengers, is the first of a fleet of three giant liners to be put into service. The other two are expected to be completed by next spring.

Alameda, Berkeley Gridders to Clash Nov. 3 in Oakland

ALAMEDA, Oct. 31.—With both teams looked upon as having an even break, the football contest this Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3, at the Davies Field in Oakland, is drawing the attention of many young grid enthusiasts.

Having emerged victorious in all of their practice games this season so far, the Goofs seem confident of the outcome. The Nissels, on the other hand, have behind them several seasons of real taste in the science of this sport.

The Alamedans' team gains its strength from such stars as Noboru Takagi, the half-back, and Captain George Shiyaki, tackle. They are expected to work a havoc among the Berkeleyans.

BODIES HOLD JOINT MEET

Miss Hirano Presides At Union Service On Sunday Eve.

Special to The Japanese American News

OAKLAND, Oct. 31.—The first union devotional meeting ever conducted between Oakland and Alameda Epworth Leagues was successfully held Sunday evening at the Oakland M. E. Church. Miss Yone Hirano, president of the Oakland society, presided.

The meeting was opened by singing a hymn entitled "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee." Hiroshi Yamashita then gave the opening prayer, which was followed by Miss Nakayama's scripture reading. The girls' quartet of Oakland next offered a beautiful vocal rendition.

James Hanamura, president of the Alameda Epworth League, delivered the first talk of the evening. He declared that one must pray earnestly in order that we may establish a spiritual comradeship with God.

FOR HIGHER AIM
Ben Furuta of Oakland, the second speaker, then gave an impressive address. He said in part that as far as prayer life was concerned Japanese young people in general have had very little experience.

Following the service, the members of both organizations enjoyed a brief social hour at which time delicious refreshments were served by the Oakland society.

Thirty Watsonville Young People Attend Mrs. Nakano's Party

Special to The Japanese American News

WATSONVILLE, Oct. 30.—In order to get acquainted with the young people of this city, Mrs. Nakano, the new proprietress of the popular pool hall and candy store at 146 Main street, gave a gorgeous dinner party last night at the Hashimoto Inn, Sunday.

More than 30 young people of this city and Monterey were treated with "good eats," music and dancing, and it was a most enjoyable party. George Waka, acting as the toastmaster of the evening, gave a brief talk on behalf of Mrs. Nakano. Then, he introduced Miss Shizue Jun, Ben Nakano and their elder sister to the guests.

Fred Nitta responded with thanks on behalf of the Watsonville young people. Among those present were Loui Waki, Isao Yokoyama, Gitsu Ueyeda, Bill Shirachi, John Ura, Joe Mori-moto, Chieko Ogi, Jack Mida, Mr. and Mrs. George Waka, Ben Nakano, Masao Takemoto, Bob Handa, Jun Nakano, Miss Shizue Nakano, Fred Nitta and many others from Monterey.

JAPAN FETES BIRTHDAY OF JURY SYSTEM

Success of Institution Shown After Twelve Months' Trial

TOKYO, Oct. 31.—One year ago on October 1 the jury system went into effect throughout the country, and on the first anniversary day the highest judicial authorities of the Empire met to celebrate the success of the system during its first year.

The review of the entire twelve months found the system fairly satisfactory. Only 123 cases had been tried under the new system, and this was attributed to the lack of public knowledge of the meaning of jury trials, particularly among criminal classes. The willingness and sincerity of the jurymen was pronounced almost perfect.

The Minister of Justice, Viscount Chifuyu Watanabe, in a speech before a gathering of some 400 high judicial officers who met on the occasion, declared that the law was the sign of the righteousness of a nation and that any injustice or abuse of its application was to be interpreted as a sign of the decline of the true worth of that nation.

RELUCTANCE WAS SURPRISE
The backwardness of defendants in making use of the jury system caused much surprise in judicial circles during the year and much heated controversy as to the reason. It may be recalled that jury trials are obligatory for such grave crimes as murder and arson, optional for lesser crimes such as robbery, larceny and embezzlement and forbidden in cases of treason and certain other crimes.

The unwillingness of the defendants to apply for jury trials is attributed to their fear to trust themselves to the judgement of ordinary persons, who might be influenced by popular opinion and press publicity of the alleged crimes. The consensus of legal opinion was that the requests for such trials would become more numerous as the real purposes and advantages of the system become more widely known.

Public support of the system as expressed in the manner in which those called for jury duty have acquitted themselves was extremely gratifying to the judiciary and great appreciation of it was expressed at the gathering.

The average time of jury trials has been about one day and a half. The number completed in one day without the necessity of locking the jury up overnight was 68, those completed in two days 45, and those in three 17 and those in four days only four. Only one trial took five days of deliberation, the first jury arson trial in Tokyo.

Bright Cage Season Is Predicted For Dinuba YMA Five

Special to The Japanese American News

DINUBA, Oct. 31.—Despite its loss of three veterans, the Dinuba Y. M. A. is optimistic as to its success in the coming basketball season. Twelve players responded to the call for the initial practice held last Sunday. Each casaba slinger of the club proved to be faster on the floor work and much more accurate in passing and shooting than the Y. M. A. players of the previous years.

The erratic playing of a year ago is gone, and the efficiency of the 1929 edition is enhanced by a roster of crack shooters. They are: G. Kawano, E. Yamashiro, K. Minura, H. Minura, H. Iwata, K. Hanada, M. Hanada, E. Oh, S. Oh, B. Mitsuda, W. Wake and A. Araki.

Following the service, the members of both organizations enjoyed a brief social hour at which time delicious refreshments were served by the Oakland society.

The party disbanded about 11:30 and everyone was grateful to Mrs. Nakano, and went home wishing the new owner of the store a prosperous future.

THE BIFOCAL MIND

By GLENN FRANK

We have been accustomed to dividing the world of men into two sharply divided classes: Near sighted men. Far sighted men. And the palm has gone to the far sighted men.

Particularly in these days of rapid change in the procedures of business and industry, we have said that the price of survival was far-sightedness.

We have painted satirical pictures of the poor fellow who never sees beyond the end of his nose, and we have exalted the business-prophet who is able to think a decade ahead of his daily operations.

It is true, as I have said before in this column, that a business man must today be a good prophet in order to make good profits.

These are long-range forces that must be taken into account unless a man wants to waken some morning to find his estate in process of expropriation.

But it is just as dangerous to become so interested in the far future that one becomes blind to the near future that one becomes blind to the far future.

The successful man is a combination prophet and promoter, a man who watches both the background and the foreground of his enterprise. He has a bifocal mind. He is acutely aware of the near-at-hand forces. And he can see far into the distance.

MENTAL ALERTNESS
In any field of large human enterprise there are long-range forces that wear the garb of fate.

And there are short-range forces that dictate the fashions of the hour.

Immediate profits require mastery of the short-range forces.

Permanent profitableness requires mastery of the long-range forces.

We are likely to be either prophetic dreamers or practical doers.

The practical doer, lacking the capacity of prophetic dreaming, is likely to be short-lived.

The bifocal mind keeps its eyes on the future while it watches the market, reads the stars while it reads the ticker tapes.

CHINA COURT TOPIC HOLDS KYOTO MEET

Solution for Problem Of Extra Rights Is Suggested

KYOTO, Oct. 31.—(UP)—A suggestion for solution of the extra-territoriality question between China and foreign nations was offered at the Institute of Pacific Relations here today by James T. Shotwell, professor at Columbia University and authority on world peace.

Shotwell offered a theory that would provide special courts for a period of from 5 to 10 years and would be presided over by international judges, including Chinese, under auspices of the World Court or a similar body.

The desire of China to cancel extra-territorial rights by which an offense committed by a citizen of another country in a foreign concession in China enables the offender to trial in his own courts has attracted considerable attention of delegates to the Institute.

Shotwell in an interview said he had not informed the State Department at Washington of his suggestion and added it was purely personal and informal, intended as a ground for discussion.

"I believe it is a sound idea and certainly preferable to an immediate termination of the present system," Sterling Fessenden, city manager of the Shanghai International Concession, member of the American delegation and observer for Shanghai business interests here, said.

Symbol of Japan-U. S. Friendship Sent to Missouri

SHIMODA, Izu, Japan, Oct. 31.—For the second time an historical relic of Japanese-American amity was transferred from Japan to the State of Missouri, in America, when a stone lantern which has for centuries stood at Hofukuji, the Zen temple here, was shipped recently to Dean Walter Williams of the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

Dean Williams chose this Ishidoro or stone lantern from several offered Missouri University of Shimoda people in token of appreciation of the Dean's friendship for Japan. The arrangements were made by Miss Muramatsu, local historian.

Miss Muramatsu learns that the unveiling of the lantern in Columbia, Mo., will be the occasion of historical reminiscence of 75 years of Japanese-American friendship, which began here in Shimoda. On that day recognition will be publicly given for the first time in America of the historical fact of the companionship which existed between Townsend Harris and the superior gelsa, Kichii Saito of Shimoda.

In making a choice of Ishidoro, Dean Williams specified his preference for one close to the spot where the ashes of Kichii Saito, at that time called "Foreigner O-Kichii" were first unceremoniously interred. Six years ago Mr. Muramatsu after long search, discovered the long-lost remains of the once despised Kichii Saito and erected a tomb in her honor. Since then thousands of people have come to burn incense and say a prayer, and the cult of O-Kichii is growing from year to year.

ONE ALREADY UNVEILED
The first symbol of friendship transferred to Missouri was the Ishidoro or stone lantern from the grounds of the estate in Tokyo where lived Townsend Harris, first foreign minister recognized by Japan. It was unveiled in front of Neg Hall by Ambassador Matsudaira, a few years ago. The present Ishidoro is destined for the grounds of the official residence of the Dean of the School of Journalism, according to information received by Mr. Muramatsu.
