RITES MARK DEDICATION OF MISSION

Japan Songs, Dances On Local Catholic Temple Program

With impressive ceremonies the new $60,000 auditorium of the Morning Star Institute of the Japanese Catholic Mission, 1715 Octavia St., was dedicated Sunday.

Consul General Morikazu Ida and Joseph P. Reiners, prefect apostolic of the diocese of Nagoya, Japan, delivered congratulatory addresses. Father William Stoek, pastor, gave the opening greetings.

Pukuso Nakahara made the report, and congratulatory speeches were rendered by Paul Ida, Mrs. Umeno Miyamoto, Nihel Amano, Michitsugu Aoki, Koshi Suzuki, and Risaku Ninomiya.

MISS MIZUHARA LEADS
In the program following the dedication were several unusually talented songs and dances by little children. The girls of the Morning Star Club who formed the club orchestra delighted the audience with accomplished selections. They were under the leadership of their club adviser, Miss Agnes Mizuhara.

Miss Upman's class presented a stunning dance number. The Japanese girls too proved no less capable when they staged the Girls' Club dance and the fancy dance. The dancers include Tamako Nakata, Juna Tanaka, Kugako Sadanaga, Koko Kimura, Yoriko Shimazaki, H. Miyamoto, Yasuko Teijima, Misao Moriochi, Yukari Takatsuno, Akako Hanaki, and Masaki Masuhara.

OTHERS TO BE ERECTED
The Fukushima Harmonica band rendered several popular selections. The auditorium is the first unit of the mission to be constructed. A church and then a school will be built as soon as funds are raised.

Monsignor Reiners who returned from Rome, where he made his report to the Pope, will return to Japan next month.

GIRL TAKES ESSAY PRIZE

Native Sons Tilt Won By Miss Yanagisawa Of Berkeley

Special to The Japanese American News
BERKELEY, Nov. 11—Miss June Yanagisawa, local Japanese girl, was included in the three more Berkeley High School Students who were given prizes in the essay contest sponsored by the Native Sons of Alameda County.

The awards were made at a program held Friday evening at the Oakland High School auditorium.

Eleanor La Mont, whose essay was selected as the first of the six best and who received the prize of $50 read her essay. Her subject was "The Modoc Indian War." Music was furnished by the Oakland High School orchestra.

The prize money distributed at the program last evening amounted to $265. The prizes were presented to the students by Frank Garrison, auditor of Alameda County. George H. Oaks of Hayward, who was in charge of the committee promoting the contest, presided during the exercises.

Norwalk YMA Holds Oratorical Meeting At Gakuen Building

Special to The Japanese American News
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11—with Gunji Asawa as the presiding officer, the Young Men's Association held an interesting oratorical program Sunday night, Nov. 8, at the Norwalk Gakuen Hall.

Besides the main speeches, Secretary Nakamura of the society delivered greetings, and a piano solo was rendered by Miss Hatsuye Nawa. A koto trio was given by Toshiko Miura, Chizuko and Mrs. Miura.

The main speakers included: J. Suzuki, S. Saito, K. Okumura, T. Takaya, T. Hara, M. Saito and Masayoshi Ota. The last speaker delivered his oration in English. Rev. Kyoshi Ishikawa, club adviser, made critical comments of the speeches.

MANCHURIAN CLASH SEEN

Matsuoka's Remark at Kyoto Meet Evokes Writer's Opinion

By WILLIAM P. SIMMERS

In the S. F. News
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—The frank avowal of a Japanese spokesman at the Institute of Pacific Relations in session at Kyoto, that Japan would have annexed Manchuria in 1905 had it known what now knows, will hardly be lost on the chancelleries of the world.

The admission was made by Yosuke Matsuoka, former vice-president of the South Manchurian Ry., an official reputed to know more of the secret, inside workings of Japanese policy in China than any living man. The head of this railway, which is government owned, ranks as a cabinet minister.

The significance of Matsuoka's statement lies in the fact that observers are agreed that sooner or later another war will be fought in Manchuria and, when that time comes, what Japan failed to do in 1905, through an inadvertence, she will almost certainly do then.

MATSUOKA'S REPLY

The Institute of Pacific Relations is now nearing the close of its sessions. During an open debate the Chinese delegates charged that the Japanese are encroaching upon Chinese sovereignty in the three eastern provinces of the celestial republic, whereupon the doughty Japanese railroad man stood up and replied.

But for just one thing, Matsuoka would have annexed Manchuria at the time of the Russo-Japanese war. What prevented annexation was Japan's ignorance of the Sino-Russian understanding, a secret part of which, in effect, was a military alliance with Japan as the common enemy.

Far Eastern observers are of the opinion that both China and Russia are now convinced that a war between them at this time would end in the annexation of Manchuria by Japan, for which reason they hesitate to begin open hostilities.

JAPAN'S INTEREST

Japan has already fought two wars over Manchuria, one with China in 1895 and the other with Russia in 1904. She won both wars, but in the first she was forced by the great powers to give back her Manchuria holdings to China, only to see them gobbled up by Russia a short time later.

Japan now insists that the treaty which China then signed with Russia not only contained a secret

Nanking Approves Johnson as U. S.'s Minister to China

Special to The Japanese American News
SHANGHAI, Nov. 11—A spokesman for the foreign ministry of the Nationalist government today said the United States had submitted the name of Nelson Johnson to be American minister to China, succeeding John V. A. MacMurray. It was considered as certain that Johnson would be acceptable to China.

At a farewell luncheon today, at which the overseas delegates entertained their Japanese hosts, it was said by the spokesman that the conference had at least promoted Chinese-Japanese understanding, it being remarked that so many prominent Chinese and Japanese leaders had not met before in the last ten years.

Dr. Nitobe, closing the formal session, said the conference had greatly aided the growing tendency among all Japanese people toward internationalism. He emphasized that the Japanese newspapers have been friendly to the institute, even though such questions as the Manchurian problem had come up.

SCOUTS WIN 1ST HONORS

Fresno's Troop No. 16 Captures First Aid Event at Council

FRESNO, Nov. 11—A first aid team of five Japanese scouts took the honors in the first annual first aid contest held by the Sequoia Area Council, Boy Scouts, last weekend in which eight competing teams representing Fresno and Madera counties participated.

The Japanese troop is Troop No. 10 of the Japanese Congregational Church of Fresno and its scoutmaster is Ernest Ginsburg. It made 383 out of a possible 400 and won a silver trophy.

Second in the contest, losing first by only one point, was the Coalinga representative, Troop No. 72, sponsored by the Coalinga Men's Club with Harry Thompson as scoutmaster.

Troop No. 19 of the Easterly Parent-Teacher Association, W. J. Eudaly scoutmaster, was awarded third, receiving honorable mention.

Others were: Fourth, No. 1, Episcopate Cathedral, Fresno, 357; fifth, No. 23, Northside Christian Church, Fresno, 352; sixth, No. 113, Presbyterian Church, Madera 352; seventh, No. 22, Calwa Parent-Teacher Association; eighth, No. 91, Iowa School, Fresno.

U. S. MAN IS NEW HEAD OF PACIFIC BODY

Institute of Pacific Relations Closed By Dr. Nitobe

Special to The Japanese American News

KYOTO, Nov. 11—Jerome D. Green, New York banker, was elected chairman of the Pacific Council, governing body of the Institute of Pacific Relations, at Saturday's final session.

Izao Nitobe, member of the Japanese House of Peers, was elected first vice-chairman and Newton Rowell of Toronto, second vice-chairman, Frank C. Atherton of Honolulu was re-elected treasurer.

Professor James T. Shotwell resigned as chairman of the international research committee and in his place Charles P. Howland of the Council on Foreign Relations in New York was elected the head of this committee, the most important connected with the entire institute.

MEETS IN CHINA

J. Merle Davis, general secretary of the organization at the Honolulu headquarters, resigned, but will continue until a successor is found to replace him.

The next biennial meeting of the institute in 1931 will be held in China.

Dr. Nitobe, closing the formal session, said the conference had greatly aided the growing tendency among all Japanese people toward internationalism. He emphasized that the Japanese newspapers have been friendly to the institute, even though such questions as the Manchurian problem had come up.
