YEN IN NEW CHINA MOVE

Warlord To Form New Peiping Gov't Sys Rumour

Special To the Japanese American News
NANKING, Feb. 19.—It is rumored here today that Gen. Yen Shih-shan, warlord of Shanai province, will establish a rival government in Peiping, the old capital of China, following the refusal of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek to comply with his demands to resign as president of the Chinese Republic.

Yen's government, it is said, will consist of Gen. Peng as chief of military affairs and Wang Chao-ming as executive leader of the Koumingtang, the Nationalist party of China. It is not known, however, whether Wang, a refugee in Hongkong, will accept this post. Being the head of the rising left-wing faction of the present Koumingtang, he has considerable prestige among his followers, and it is declared to be doubtful whether he will consent to play second fiddle to Gen. Yen in the latter's projected plans for a new government in Peiping.

Following the creation of this new Peiping government, Gen. Yen is expected to outlaw all adherents of the present Nanking government under Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, together with the present governing faction of the Koumingtang party.

Kasuo Grace Oyama, of 342 W. Tulara street, Dunsmuir, California, sends us these good jokes:

John: "All of 'em."

—Junior—
About a million people have voted lately, in an election carried on by the American Nature Association, to choose the national flower of the United States. The flower that got by far the most votes is the wild rose, not any special color, just any sort of wild rose. I wish that our club members could plant some of these beautiful plants in the places where they live. Maybe you will think up a way to do it.

Pleasant days to you! Obasan.

Washington Rules She May Land Despite Port Decision

Mrs. Raku Okamoto, who has been detained at the Angel Island immigration station ever since her arrival here on Jan. 29 because she had overstayed her allotted time as a temporary visitor in Japan, was landed Wednesday after a special ruling was obtained from Washington.

The Japanese woman, arrived here aboard the N. Y. K. liner Taiyo Maru, is accompanied by her baby, born in Japan. Because she was in Japan for seven years, the local immigration authorities held that she was not entitled to land.

Three other Japanese who arrived here aboard the same ship are still detained at Angel Island. They are Kiyoshi Kido, a United States citizen, and two temporary visitors, Eiji Nakagawa and Toshiyuki Yamakawa.

7 SEAS OF REVOLUTION

BY GLENN FRANK
Man pushes his mastery of nature further and further. As man feels his scientific control of his environment increasing, he tends to lean less and less upon religious authority that found its mandate in the dim past when the new open book of nature was a fear-breeding mystery. Science is making a new kind of mind and a new kind of man. Life is subtly changed by the seemingly inexhaustible flow of new appliances.

Fifth, The Religious Revolution. Rightly or wrongly, multitudes of modern men cannot find through historic creeds and dogmas a creative adjustment to the new era. The great racial faiths are coming more and more into contact and all faiths are feeling the effect of this contact. Modern man is groping for a religious experience that will help him meet the pressing problems of prejudice that cluster about the competitions of races, nations, and classes.

Sixth, The Social Revolution. The small local community is dying. The individual is being superseded by the group. The Orient stirs from a long and enervating slumber. Universal education creates as many problems as it solves. The center of gravity shifts from agriculture to industry. The new economics puts problems to the old politics that are baffling. Radio, motion pictures, talking films, television, the airplane are remaking the world.

Seventh, The Psychological Revolution. The new individual slips the leash of traditions, group ideas and disciplines that controlled the old individual. Modern man has made a rather complete mental and emotional break with the past. The equilibrium of outer and inner forces is disturbed. A wistful quest for a new and better balance marks our time. Beneath our varied poses of unconcern is a genuine hunger for satisfying faiths and purposes.

For good or for ill, we are children of a generation that must shed from these seven seas of revolution!

Miss Florence Lee Meets Ex-Spouse of Her American Lover

While Victor Boisseree remained in jail on a charge of not supporting his two children, his former wife, Miss Florence Lee, the Chinese girl with his first name, met for the first time.

The meeting was not in the police court where the case was called Tuesday. It occurred the night before, when Mrs. Mildred Boisseree, who divorced her husband last July, went to call upon Florence Lee, the Chinese girl with whom Boisseree was found in Seattle.

"I asked her to give him up, Mrs. Boisseree said, not because I am jealous, for our love is quite gone. But I want to protect my children. I do not want them to grow up to know that their father has married a Chinese woman."

Miss Lee replied that she would not desert her sweetheart while he was in trouble.

Court proceedings in the case Tuesday were brief, Clay Fedrasini, appearing for the defendant, asked for a continuance until February 20.

During the past 20 years, the world of medical science has made many remarkable discoveries about cancer with result that we are now convinced that it will not be long before the means of preventing and curing the disease may be found.

$10,000 SUIT IS FILED IN STOCK'N ROW

Filipino Charges His Father-in-Law With Girl Abduction

Special To the Japanese American News
STOCKTON, Feb. 19.—A damage suit of $10,000 was filed today by Roberto Stapia, a Filipino, who married a Japanese girl sometime ago, charging his father-in-law, Yasaburo Seki, with abduction of his new bride.

The bride, the former Miss Chiyoko Seki of this city, is the third daughter of Yasaburo Seki. She stirred quite a sensation when she eloped with the Filipino and secretly became married in Sacramento.

Mrs. Stapia has disappeared ever since she visited her parents' home following her marriage. She is believed by Filipinos to have been kidnaped by her parents while she was securing her clothes at her home.

Partly as a result of this interracial row over marriage, the Filipinos in this district have called a general boycott against all Japanese stores in town. This boycott has somewhat subsided of late.

Stapia's grounds for his damage suit is a delicate one. He charges that he has been forced to undergo much humiliation and mental suffering due to the forced separation.

The Filipino became acquainted with the Japanese bride while latter was working in a pool parlor after school hours. Previous to her elopement she was a sophomore student at the local high school.
