COMMENTS

By A. M.

We received a ton of election literature today—or so it seemed to us. We proceeded as far as to see where our polls are situated and then—we went no farther. We see where we must return to college and take courses in civil engineering, accounting, statistics, political science, business organization, and a great many other things to bridge the huge gaps in our mental chain in order to be able to even read the pamphlet intelligently—not to mention anything about having any opinions on how to vote—Our only comfort lies in the statement that a political science professor who was once trying to teach us something about American institutions made at the last presidential elections. Out of the forty odd questions up for voting, this professor confessed that he was positive about only two—Did they say this is a country “by the people”? A. M. disclaims any such pretensions—but more about this later when we have tried to wade through the “literature.”

Tasuke Yamagata, recent delegate to the Seattle Citizens' convention, presents California to the young people of Hawaii as a land of splendid opportunities, especially in the rural districts. Distance lends charm, they say. Quite contrary to the ordinary rules of optics, man seems to see more good points in anything as he gets farther away from that object.—Perhaps it might do the second generation of California and other states a great deal of good if they could get away from their comfortable little nooks for a while to get a true perspective of things.

PAPERS report that Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh spent their whole time in Washington D. C. dodging curious crowds.—Being great must be a trial at times.

—oo—oo—

On all sides we hear and read about California's autumn being praised and compared with the snow and cold of the East. One writer even goes into raptures over autumn leaves and flash of color.—Pardon our prosaic and matter-fact temperament. California autumns are usually not like those of the East and Midwest where the hills and roadsides seem to catch on fire with maples and goldenrods. In California in the autumn everything is dry, bare and brown until the rains begin to fall. Then the predominant color is green and the only leaves we have are the green leaves of budding foliage and grass. Spring in autumn—that is California.

From the Orient returned the Chicago baseball nine on board the Taiyo Maru arriving in San Francisco early Wednesday afternoon.

The ball team, which made a trip through Japan at the invitation of the Waseda university, played 15 games with Japanese teams while there, losing seven games, winning seven games, and tying one game.

The following is the complete resume of the games in Japan, according to manager N. Norgren:

With Waseda, won 3, lost 3; Keio, won 1, lost 1; Kansai, won 1; Tamon, lost 1, won 2; Tokyo tie; Meiji, lost 2.

A. H. FORD TO GO TO JAPAN

Pan-Pacific Director to Tell Leaders of Next Meet

HONOLULU, Oct. 22.—Alexander Hume Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union, is leaving for Japan at the end of this month to interest the Japanese leaders of the empire in the coming Pan-Pacific Agricultural conference to be held in Honolulu next August, it is reported.

Ford will also visit other Oriental countries, organizing Pan-Pacific clubs and making connections for the proposed Pan-Pacific Ethical conference which will follow the conference next year. While abroad he plans to bring up the matter of having a Pan-Pacific clubhouse in Honolulu and raise funds for the acquisition of the University club so that it may be used by all the racial clubs in Honolulu.

WHAT EDUCATION COSTS US

By GLENN FRANK

It is being said that public expenditures in general and school costs in particular are absorbing a swiftly growing portion of the national income.

It is being said that we have already reached or will shortly reach the limit which the nation can safely spend for public education.

How true or how false are these assertions?

The National Education association has prepared a research bulletin on our national investment in education to answer these queries.

Here are some basic facts with which this research report begins:

In 1928, the last year for which accurate figures were available when this research was conducted, the incomes of all the people of the United States added together was

GLENN FRANK the cost of schools is an important part, is larger than the nation can afford.

It is being said that more money is being spent for schools than the importance of schools justifies.

It is being said that the total of public expenditures, of which

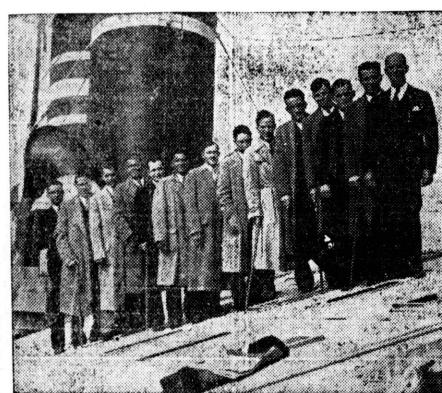

GLENN FRANK the cost of schools is an important part, is larger than the nation can afford.

L. A. NICHIBEI BACKS NEW WRITING TILT

Compton Gakuen Pupil Wins First Place in Class B

[Special to The Japanese American News]

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—Awards for those who placed in the Japanese composition contest, sponsored by the Los Angeles Japanese American News, were made last Sunday at the Rafu Dai-ichi gakuen. Miss Shizuko Osaka of Compton gakuen won first place in the B class contest.

Y. Shimamoto, managing editor of the sponsoring paper, greeted the contestants. He was followed by S. Horii, who spoke in behalf of the judges. Koho Shimano, who did much for the composition contest, congratulated the winners upon their success in the contest and expressed his hopes to see the second generation make a further effort to better their ability in the use of the Japanese language.

The Japanese composition contest, the first of its kind held here, took place on October 12. The participants wrote their compositions in two hours. The contestants were divided into A and B groups and six topics for each group were given to the participants to choose one and write on that topic in the allotted time.

MUSICIANS TO MAKE DEBUT

The Los Angeles Japanese Musical Club, composed entirely of second generation musicians, will make their debut in the local Japanese community when the club presents its first concert on Saturday, November 1, at the Japanese Union church here.

Little Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Takamura on Soledad street, was awakened by a sound a little after midnight in the hallway Monday night.

Michio Kono, well known Japanese cellist, is leading the club of 20 talented members.

DENTAL STUDENTS HONORED

Two Japanese students at the Dental college of the University of Southern California were honored recently when they were elected to join the Rho Chi, national honorary dental fraternity.

The Japanese students are Miss Hideko Kumai and George Katagiri.

Upperclassmen at Waseda Refuse to Join School Strike

[Special to The Japanese American News]

TOKYO, Oct. 22.—One part of the Waseda student strike has been weakened due to the refusal of the upperclassmen to take part in the strike. These students give two reasons for non-cooperation. They are nearing graduation and they fear that participation in strike might prevent them from obtaining their diplomas. They also fear that it might handicap them in their search for jobs upon graduation. The lowerclassmen are for the strike one hundred per cent.

Delegates to Recent Citizens' Meet Tells Hawaii Youth of Conference and Big Opportunities on Mainland

HONOLULU, Oct. 22.—At a recent meeting of the Hawaiian Japanese Civic Association, Tasuke Yamagata, recent delegate to the Seattle Citizens' league conference, gave an interesting and detailed report on the Seattle conference.

He stressed the fact that the convention itself was a great success because it helped American citizens of Japanese parentage to realize the importance of organization in putting anything across.

FARMING OPPORTUNITY

Yamagata closely studied the agricultural conditions on the Pacific coast, particularly in California, and stated that there is wonderful opportunity in that state for Hawaiian-born to be a success in agricultural enterprises.

"In general," said Yamagata, "Hawaii's boys are making good in the Pacific states. Wherever I went I found them in good community standing and in numerous places they are leaders of the younger generation. The splendid showing that is being made by these boys is rapidly eradicating the bad reputation that was endangering in the past by some irresponsible Hawaiian Japanese."

HOME FOR AGED

The meeting approved the plans of the board of directors to sponsor a benefit Japanese entertainment for the establishment of the home for the aged and beautification of Kapilohi park.

Alexander Hume Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union and honorary member of the organization who was instrumental in the creation of the organization four years ago, praised the club for its active participation in civic affairs. He extended an invitation to the club to meet at the Pan-Pacific Research Institution.

JAPANESE GOVERNMENT TO HONOR TREATY DELEGATES

Reedley Japanese Sustain Big Loss in Fire Tuesday

[Special to The Japanese American News]

TOKYO, Oct. 22.—The Japanese government is considering the bestowal of decorations as the final exchange of ratifications of the London treaty nears completion.

Prominent among those mentioned for the honor are Reijo Wakatsuki, former premier and chief delegate to the London conference and Hyo Takarabe, former Minister of the Navy and naval delegate at the conference. It is being rumored that these men will be conferred the title of baron.

Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japan's ambassador to Great Britain will be decorated with the First Order of the Rising Sun.

Matsuza Nagai, another delegate at the conference and present ambassador to Belgium, will also be decorated, it is said.

G. YAMAMURO STOPS IN S. F.

Salvation Army Head of Japan on Way to London

B. HUME FORD

Will Be Named as Envoy to Germany

[Special to The Japanese American News]

TOKYO, Oct. 22.—Torkichi Kobata, former ambassador to Turkey will be formally appointed ambassador to Germany in the near future, it is rumored. Kobata was a former minister to China. Recently he was re-appointed to his old post by the Foreign Department which realized in Kobata a capable man able to handle the series of delicate situations in China. The Chinese, however, strongly opposed the choice. Kijuro Shidehara, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in accordance with his usual friendly and peaceful policy therupon decided to appoint Kobata to the German post.

Construction work had been stopped due to a lack of funds and work will be opened again. The total amount necessary to finish the work is estimated at $45,000,000. To raise this sum it has been decided to float a bond issue in the United States.

Takao Haraguchi, financial attaché at New York, will make the negotiations. Finance experts say that it is most likely that the Morgan firm will back the undertaking.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR SECTION

[Special to The Japanese American News]

TOKYO, Oct. 22.—Japan will take the part in the three power world-wide broadcast to be made by the leaders of the three nations who have accepted the London naval treaty.

Premier Yuko Hamaguchi will broadcast from Tokyo on October 27 at 11 p.m. The speech will last for about 45 minutes. This will be about 6 a.m. October 27 according to Pacific Standard Time.
