Someone has estimated that if each person would put one extra dollar into circulation once a week, the present depression would disappear.—When it rains, it pours, they say. The same thing applies to hard times, too, it seems.—What starts out by being just a mild business depression, soon turns out to be a tightwads' competition with scarcely anything in circulation because everyone gets this panicky that hard times have come and one must save and scrimp.

Michael, former boy king of Rumania, has become a simple citizen, to his astonishment and pleasure. One day he returned from a vacation and found that his father had become king. All the boy had to say was, "Well, that's good. Now I don't have to shake so many hands or tell so many people I enjoyed my vacation!"—Of course! Of what use is an old kingdom and regal splendor to a little boy? Of no use at all except to impede and check the natural and human instincts of said little boy.

The government has at last declared war on the racketeers. In doing it seems to be cautiously getting ready.—Isn't it funny? If we remember the last World War correctly, the government and the people pushed into it with great enthusiasm regardless of life, limb and danger.—We don't know anything about wars and gangsters but judged by what we see in newspapers, we wonder if the racketeers are more dangerous than Germany and her allies during the World War.—We don't seem to hear much about "making the world safe for democracy" or peace and order, or anything else.

Young Business Man Says, "Shocking" as Rumors of the Growing Smoking Fad Among Girls Reaches His Ears

"I maybe narrow-minded, old-fashioned and all that, but I was shocked to hear from my friend recently that quite a large number of Japanese girls in the south are beginning to smoke," said a young Japanese businessman the other day to a representative of The Japanese American News.

"75 PER CENT SMOKE"

Disregarding the cynical grin on the face of the representative, the man continued. "It maybe quite an exaggeration, but I understand that 75 per cent of them do smoke constantly. And at public gatherings, mind you!

"And this 'fad' is slowly but steadily trekking northward. I know several girls here who told me that they can't get along without cigarettes. Now, that's all baloney!

"I believe in the equality of sex. Women should have voting privileges and other social privileges as well as man. I don't believe in woman working like a slave. But this smoking business among our girls—it's disgusting.

"NOT FUNDAMENTALLY BAD"

"I am not saying," the businessman continued, "that smoking is fundamentally wrong—that is, physically speaking, for we drink tea and eat other things that are harmful to our bodies—but I despise the girls smoking, because it's a sign that they hold an insincere attitude toward life. I don't like their attitude!"

When asked if he smoked, the Japanese businessman said, "Yes, I did one time."

The following is the complete program of the vocal recital made Friday night by the Japanese singer with her supporters in this city:
