COMMENTS

A LITTLE school girl in Yucaipa, California writes to ask for copies of The Japanese American News English section and wants information on Japan and the Japanese people.

The attitude of the American public toward the Japanese is getting more and more friendly and understanding. In fact, in the last ten or more years there has been an increasing tendency among the more enlightened Americans, especially among the students, to learn more about the Japanese.

Breadlines! On a dismal, dark day like this when it is pouring outside it is more than depressing to think of the thousands of breadlines that must exist in the United States today.
