WHAT I am intending to say today, my first article since we have graced our column with a head-design, does not reflect the thought of the entire editorial staff of this paper, but merely the humble contemplation of this writer alone.

A large number of the readers of this column will observe the Good Friday today with deep meditation. And in a few days, on the Easter Sunday, they will be singing hymns of great rejoicing, celebrating the coming-to-life again of their Saviour, the Christ of Nazareth.

Whether that man Christ, or the son of God as he is claimed to be by many, did really rise again after having been dead for three days or not, it does not matter very much. The very fact that such a legend has been the cause of creating a beautiful and memorable day in our calendar such as Easter, I should think we ought to feel thankful for it.

At least I am. Not because it convinces me of the immortality of human life, but because it reminds me once again that I am still alive—and that all around me is saturated with life.

THE intense joy of being alive comes only to one who has grasped the emptiness and the nothingness of after-death. It seems to me. A man who believes in life after death, this so-called life everlasting, cannot comprehend the joy of a man who endeavors to see all, know all, and feel all while living now in this world.

We will be dead, sooner or later. We are forever walking toward the graveyard. There will come a moment when our consciousness will be entirely. That is death. But don't think me a pessimist, for the conception of death is merely the first premise in my logic of formulating a life-view.

After we have made a clear conception of death and its nothingness—which is sorrow itself—think of life today. Lo and behold, rejoice, we are living today. We are living and we are able to see the beauty of the world, smell the fragrant odor of the earth, appreciate the music of the masters and the warbling of the birds, feel happiness in loving and being loved. This is life. Every moment, it seems so precious.

I am madly in love—in love with life today. For tomorrow I die. Will you call me superficial, and my way of looking at life just a youthful illusion? Say whatever you will, I am extremely happy today.

OFFICIAL FORECAST: FRIDAY—Fair and mild.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR SECTION

Hello, everybody! Come, everybody, from all ends of the earth, north, south, east, and west! Come and gather around auntie for just a few jolly moments before we scatter again to perform our various duties.

All here everybody?—Right.—Here is the breeziest letter from a fairy called "Will-O'-the-Wisp." Isn't this thrilling? Let's hear what Will-O'-the-Wisp has to say, family mine. "Tia Mia! (Oh dear!) This fairy knows Spanish! Like the last blustering gust of the wind o' March, I'm blowing into your cozy column. Hail, Skipper! Mia! Hail ho, jolly shipmates! Mia! Now, before I move go breezing out once more into the cold, surely you'll let me warm myself a wee bit at your cheery fire. Chial! Master! Welcome into our midst! What good wind brings thee here?"

"Oh, but I've envied the good fellowship that rings out in your column, and I've been deeply touched by the floods of 'Cheerios' that always go a-singing out to some poor matey who's anchored to a sick room bunk. Golly, but I'd be proud to be accepted as one of you! May-be through your section, too, I can help to cheer up somebody who's been sentenced to a diet of cod liver oil! And I want to laugh, too, like you all do each day—laugh till the welkin rings. (Gurgling laughter, hushed words of love and sympathy, 900 loving hearts to keep us warm and happy.—That is our family, Will-O'-the-Wisp. And now, you are one of us.)

"Now, now, you needn't ask me who I am, for that's not important. You can't ask where I live 'cause I'm here in your columns today and gone tomorrow, just like a Will-O'-the-Wisp. You can't ask how old I am because Will-O'-the-Wisp is only a myth, a spirit, and a spirit has no age.—Why, that's what I call myself—Will-O'-the-Wisp!

"Here, Aunt Mia, are a few lines. Can you use them? If you and my shipmates can forgive them, I'll try harder next time. (Family mine, hold your breath, and let's go sailing through the skies on the back of the wind with "Will-O'-the-Wisp.")

WIND'S A-BLOWING Wind's a-blowing through a fairy called "Will-O'-the-Wisp." Isn't this thrilling? Let's hear what Will-O'-the-Wisp has to say, family mine. Come, Boreas, race with me Up the hill that sees the bay! Stop, Boreas, wait for me—North wind's laughing far away.

Wind's a-rushing from the sky, Vagabonding everywhere. Laughing, singing, too, am I—Wind a-blowing through my hair! —Will-O'-the-Wisp.

Wasn't that lovely, family mine? Didn't you, too, go rushing through the skies with Will-O'-the-Wisp and feel the wind through your hair? Fairy mine, that was a gem!—Some day, members, auntie may be able to gather all the best poems, letters, and articles by you all in our column and compile a book called "Songs and Thoughts of the Second Generation," or something like that. What do you think? Auntie thinks it's going to be interesting.

And now let's talk with Jeanne of Los Angeles who insists on calling herself "Only a Pebble on the Beach."

"Pop! Here I am—been absent such a long time—do you remember me? So much has happened since I typed to you last. We've gained so many more new cousins and lost a precious one, too.—But then, our loss is God's gain,—ne?"

"Oh, the weather is marvelous!—I'm GRAND! You wake up in the morning and pop out of bed—rush to the window—and what do you see?—The old standby, of course, with his face beaming, and bursting. We greet Old Sol, and he follows us all day long. He must feel lost way up there with no companions—only a blue, blue sky—no clouds to play with.—That's why he tries so hard to be friendly and

OUR THIRTY-SECOND ANNIVERSARY TODAY

See Facsimile of First Issue of The Japanese American News on Third Page

With this issue of Number 11,288, The Japanese American News celebrates the 32nd anniversary.

Just one score and 12 years ago, on April 3, 1899, the newspaper made its debut in the Japanese colony of San Francisco, as a champion for the cause of the Japanese immigrants. The newspaper was emerged after combining two Japanese journals published at that time in San Francisco, the Hokubei Nippon and the Soko Nihon Shimbun. The title, "Nichi-Bel" was chosen by taking "ni" of the "Nihon" of the latter paper and "bel" of the former. The title, as it still appears in our publication, was written by Katsuo Kaishu, well known writer of Chinese characters, and a naval authority of Japan.

The facsimile of the front page of the first issue of The Japanese American News is printed on the third page of the Japanese edition. The paper has grown from a little two-page affair to its modern 8-page newspaper with one page of English section. What history is written in that one sentence!

Will you not join in our rejoicing at this happy time, in celebration of our 32nd anniversary?

HEATED JAAU CAGE GAMES EXPECTED THIS WEEKEND

NisseiFive Contender for Championship in League

Nearing the end of the season, but drawing just as much interest as it did at the beginning of the season, two J.A.A.U. games will be played in the bay region this weekend.

The Nissei vs. U. C. game will be played at the Woodward Wilson court starting at 9:15 p.m. while the "B" teams of the two organizations will meet in the "B" class series starting at 8 p.m. as preliminary to the "A" team tussle.

If the U. C. loses to the Nissei, the championship of the J.A.A.U. will go definitely to the Nissei five, while if the Nissei loses to the collegeans, the Showa will still have chances of tying with the league leader.

The Showa five which is in the second position, will play Y.M.B.A. tonight on Saturday evening at the Salvation army court here, while second teams of the two San Francisco fives will engage in "B" series battle as preliminary to the "A" games.

In the event, U. C. wins over Nissei, Saturday, the Showa vs. Y.M.B.A. game will be of great interest as whether Nissei ties with Showa or wins the league championship will depend on this outcome.

The Showa has won 6 games and lost three, while Nissei has won 7 and lost two.

S. F. SHOWA CLUB The Board of Directors of the

FINAL PLANS MADE FOR YP MEET, APR. 12

Oakland 1st Church Is Decided; Direction Given

Engaging upon an extensively planned program for the now nearing Bay Regional Y.P.C. convale, the cabinet and committee chairman met together for their final preparations in paving a way for a more inspiring conference at the Independent Church in Oakland last Sunday afternoon. Shigeru Saito, chairman of the coming conference presided over the meeting.

The first business of the day was the reports given by the delegates who represented the executive board at the Fresno parley. The delegates gave an enthusiastic report and especial praises were given of the Bible study, a new feature that had been inaugurated at their conference.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The general arrangement committee, under Hiroshi Yamashita, stated that the conference has been definitely decided upon to be held at the First Christian church of Oakland, where the Rev. Mr. Reager is the pastor. The following direction were given as to its location, and how to reach the church from San Francisco. If the Key Route ferry is taken, get off at Key Route Inn, after arriving in Oakland, which is at 22nd and Broadway. Walk up north on Broadway, for seven blocks to 29th street. Then turn up east to Harrison street. The church is located on the corner of Harrison and 29th streets. If the Southern Pacific ferry is taken from San Francisco, take the 18th street, train from the Oakland pier and get off at Broadway, walk up north 11 blocks to Harrison street. For those who wish to reach the church from Oakland or Alameda, take the number 6 or 10 car and get off at 29th street on Broadway. And from Berkeley, vice-versa.

OUTDOOR SERVICE

At this meeting, many criticisms as to the inadvisability for a conference to hold an outing on the second day of the conference, as was originally planned upon, were discussed and to remedy the plans, an outdoor devotional service was decided upon by the committee.

The pastors representing the Northern California Church of federation expressed their desire of taking more active part in the conference work this year. It was decided upon to ask the pastors of the various churches to act in capacity of discussion leaders.

The following speakers have been obtained by the program committee. Dr. Cross, of the North Bay Community church, will deliver the opening sermon of the conference on Saturday afternoon. His topic will be "Jesus' Way, All the Way."

For the Sunday morning, Young People's church, the Rev. Mr. Kennedy will be the main speaker. Dr. Hunter will address the delegates at the closing service.

DEBATE IS FEATURED

Another new feature of the conference, which is being looked upon with keen anticipation is the Saturday night debate. The topic to be debated upon, has been selected as "Resolved That a College Education is Essential to a Full Christian Life." Hiroshi Yamashita and George Takahashi of Oakland M.E. church will uphold the affirmative side. The negative berth will be upheld by Iwao Kawakami and Mr. Yamazaki of San Francisco M. E. church. The speakers will be allowed 10 minutes each to present their views and the audience will draw their own conclusions.

Miss Misaki Jijima, picture chairman, announces that the conference picture will be taken right after the Young People's church at 12:30 Sunday. A small sum of 75 cents will be charged for the pictures for all those who wish to procure them.

In the absence of Dave Tatsuno, who is confined in bed with slight cold, Shigeru Koba, reported on the progress of the registration committee. He said that the registration reports up to date is encouraging and he anticipated a 100 per cent pre-registration.

Showa club will meet Friday night at the home of Tamotsu Sakai on Post street starting at 8 p.m. It was announced Thursday morning by Akira Omoto.

U.C. Grads Will Honor Dr. Akagi at Social, April 7

A farewell dinner honoring Dr. Roy Akagi, who will soon leave for Columbia university, will be sponsored by the Alumni association of the University of California at the Nippon club on Tuesday evening, April 7, at 6:30 o'clock.
