350 ATTEND E.L. NIGHT IN OAKLAND

Christian, Buddhist, American, Japanese Gather Sunday

By A. M. 'SINGING in these rains!' Yes, that's what the farmers were doing all over California yesterday as the heavens poured down great, big drops of rain for the hungry, parched land.

As we sat at the Scottish Rite auditorium last night and watched the graceful, lithe movements of Miss Hino and her pupils, the line "Genius as dancer, teacher" also occurred to us.

PROPPED up on A.M.'s typewriter we found the following lines by Miss Ruth Margaret Dodge, Editor of The Japanese American Weekly English section.

READERS' COLUMN

U.C. ALUMNI PREXY THANKS PAPER AID Editor, The Japanese-American: I wish to thank the English Section for the wholehearted cooperation extended in the conduct of the tenth annual oratorical contest held last evening.

MISS OSHU HIRANO'S PRIZE WINNING U.C. ORATORICAL SPEECH CONCLUDED

(Continued from yesterday.) After thinking and pondering how I could bring out my second point, passionate loyalty and courage of the Japanese race, I feel certain that the famous drama of the "Forty-seven Ronins," would best serve my purpose.

AVENGE SCHEME TOLD His 47 followers, grief-stricken at the seeming disgrace of their master, brought on by the conspiring Kira, then resolved that they would avenge him.

(Special to Japanese American News) OAKLAND, April 27.—Approximately 350 persons, who were guests of the Oakland Epworth League at a young people's night program sponsored Sunday evening, were thoroughly thrilled and entertained by the musical and dramatic numbers presented during the evening.

The gathering was held as a part of the celebration program for the newly constructed Educational Building of the Japanese M.E. church here, on 10th and West streets.

Especially entertaining was the harmonious rendition by a group of American Epworth leaguers in Alameda. "Keeping a Beat" at a Benefit" a monologue by Miss Sato, U.C. co-ed, won a warm ovation from the audience.

OAK SHOW DRAWS 200 (Special to Japanese American News) OAKLAND, April 26.—They looked and roared and held their sides—those 200 merry young people who constituted the audience at the combined J.U.C. and U.I. Girl Reserves' benefit entertainment sponsored last night at the main Y.W.C.A. on Webster street.

Especially appealing to the merry group was the one-act play, "Too Much Bobbles," with Miss Carl Ino as Alice, and Miss Michi Kajiwara as Rita, taking the title role. Miss Setzu Kitamura's vocal solo, accompanied by Oshidari and his orchestra, captivated the hearts of the appreciative audience.

HAS SAME SPIRIT With the coming of the western social order, feudal lords and swords have been abolished. Does this mean that the Japanese are less courageous? No! The Japanese today, like the samurais of old, are courageous in overcoming difficulties, enduring hardships, bearing pain, and succeeding against odds.

AVENGE SCHEME TOLD His 47 followers, grief-stricken at the seeming disgrace of their master, brought on by the conspiring Kira, then resolved that they would avenge him.
