PRESS IN U. S. IS READY FOR JAPAN QUOTA

So Says Japan Times In Tokyo; Quotes Farrington

TOKYO, Dec. 5.—With the United States congress convening, the Japan Times, leading English daily in Japan, again raised the issue for quota for Japan in its editorial by declaring the majority of the American press is for the repeal of the discriminatory clauses of the immigration law.

The Times declares further: Of great significance are the remarks of Mr. Wallace R. Farrington, former governor of Hawaii, now president and publisher of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, who was recently in New York attending the sessions of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers association. Before these influential bodies he stated:

Trade Factor
"One of the necessities with respect to our national foreign trade in the Pacific area is that our country should, as soon as may be, place the countries of the Orient on a quota basis the same as Europe.
"Our country is well regarded in the Orient. The only fly in the ointment is the exclusion law. It might have been all right before we adopted the quota law, but now that we have a scientific exclusion law in the world, there is every reason in the world why we should apply it to all nations and wipe out a situation by which a few nations are singled out as backward, and thus in a measure insulted when there is no necessity for it.

Two Hundred Japanese
"If the Oriental countries were put under the quota law we would have for example, about 100 Chinese immigrants a year and about 150 to 200 Japanese. That number each year certainly could not cause any great overthrow of the English speaking race, upon our institutions or cause any economic friction.
"But, on the other hand, the elimination of the exclusion, the adoption of the quota, the recognition of these people on a basis of equality with other nations, as they should be recognized, will do a tremendous amount in promoting the good will and mutual respect on the basis of which business is built up.

In Hawaii
"We are bound to think of this subject in these days when our business and contacts with the Orient are steadily increasing. Our trade with the Orient runs into the billions of dollars, and the percentage of increase of trade in the Pacific area, including Australia and New Zealand, during the past fifteen years has been greater than the percentage of increase of our trade with Europe or South America, taken as a whole."
He then said that Hawaii had no Japanese problem because it had assimilated its Oriental population. When asked how this situation contrasted with that in California, he emphatically said, "We are not trying to tell California what she should do," but pointed to the success of the assimilation policy which differed from that in California, where he said, the tendency was to segregate the Orientals.

BEAUTIFUL NIKKO IN MAY STIRS ADMIRATION

By YUZO HASEGAWA
Chuzenji Road
On the rocky peaks or steep slopes along the road to Chuzenji, a certain species of the azalea predominates, bursting into large pink blossoms that mark the season in this region. They are Yashio azaleas. This is not a small shrub, it is more like a young tree. Not like an ordinary azalea it grows ten feet high, and the blossoms appear first; after the flowers have fallen the leaves sprout. With no leaves on the branches, the tree has the appearance of being covered with artificial flowers. In open places, where the trees enjoy considerable sunlight, the flowers look brighter.
Everything was wrapped in a verdant robe down in the lower portion of the mountains and the river gorge but as the zigzag way leads one higher, the air becomes cooler and the foliage sparser. On the silver birches, which flourish on the plateau, young leaves were just sprouting.
At the summit I went a short distance off the main road to see the Kegon Falls, whereby the waters of Lake Chuzenji escape in a sheer drop of 330 feet, about 18 feet wide, which never fails to excite the admiration of visitors. The fall of

Miss Morishita Delivers Speech To Sac'to League

"We can cradle the King within our own hearts—make your heart a Bethlehem by striving for peace and giving good will," declared Miss Morishita.

BANK DRIVE IS LAUNCHED

Seattle Leaders Sign Up Depositors In Campaign

[Special to Japanese American News] SEATTLE, Dec. 5.—The drive efforts which are being undertaken with vigor by the local community to reopen the Pacific Commercial Bank seems to be meeting with a whole-hearted response.
While some are looking nonchalantly and others skeptically, some fifty leaders of the Japanese community are devoting themselves to the reopening of the bank, six thousand of nine thousand depositors having turned in their agreements signed. The leaders are now conducting a stock sale drive.
The amount to be raised by selling stocks in order to reorganize the bank is $250,000. According to an authoritative source, the bank once open will be in such a bad shape as to collapse in a short period as many are fearing.

Sac'to Wakabans Given Credit For Saturday Victory

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 5.—The basketball tilt played between the local Wakaba squad and Placer Green Devils in this city last Saturday night although won by the Placer boys, the credit for the victory was awarded to the locals as the result of a managers' meeting last Tuesday evening.
It developed that a mistake in the score books showed the Placer team to be the winner by a single point but after checking over the scores again, it was discovered that Sacramento had triumphed 32-33.
After the discrepancy was revealed, Kintaro Takeda, the league director, called a special meeting at which time the representatives of each team voted to award the verdict to the Wakabans after the confusion in scores was shown. Thus, Placer and Wakaba are now tied for the A league title.

Talks on Manchuria

Chester Rowell, noted Californian publicist, who delivered an address on Manchuria at the Palace Hotel before members of the Commonwealth Club.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—A program packed with timely subjects for debate and discussion was announced today for the biennial session of the Institute of International Relations, convening at the Mission Inn in Riverside for one week beginning Dec. 15.

The institute is having the active support of Von Klein Smidt, president of the University of Southern California.

ASIA DISPUTE SPEECH TOPIC

Rowell Avers League Averted Another World War

Another world war has been averted by the League of Nations and the United States working together on the Manchurian problem, Chester Rowell, publicist, told members of the Commonwealth Club at the Palace hotel Friday.
Mr. Rowell returned Thursday from participation in the Pacific Relations Institute conference in Shanghai. He spoke to a gathering of 1000 persons who crowded every inch of standing room in the Palace gold ballroom. Scores were turned away and listened to the speech over radio KPO in the hotel lobby.
Praises League
"If it hadn't been for the League of Nations and America cooperating with the League, the explosion in Manchuria would have resulted in a conflagration that might have destroyed the earth," said he.

"In the days when we Christians were grabbing all the territory we could, Japan's action would have been perfectly proper. Now that we have had our grab and changed our attitudes, Japan's action is decidedly not proper."
