Sac'to Paper Lauds Kawakami's Article

[Special to Japanese American News] SACRAMENTO, June 25—The Sacramento Bee, which is known among Japanese for having taken up the cudgel of leadership for Oriental exclusion and enactment of the alien land laws during the height of anti-Japanese agitation some years ago, commends favorably on an article by K. K. Kawakami on Japan and the Manchurian crisis.

The editorial, appearing in the issue for June 21, is quoted in part as follows: "K. K. Kawakami, Japanese journalist, long resident in America and who will be remembered in Sacramento as a correspondent at some of the late sessions some years ago, has an article in the current number of the Atlantic which Americans will find rather difficult to answer."

Assassination of Late Premier Inukai Doooms Japan Women's Suffrage Move

With the assassination of Premier Inukai, and the formation of a National cabinet, the woman suffrage movement in Japan at present is in a state of complete collapse. The Seiyukai party, of which Inukai was the president, always stood for freedom of women and granting them the right to vote. The Seiyukai during the last few years had woman suffrage as one of its main party planks.

Not only is the National Cabinet a strong barrier to the movement, but the fascistic color, which is prevalent in the country now, naturally would oppose woman suffrage, since it adheres to the old Japanese social customs, based upon the family system, in which women are barred from taking part in the social and political world.

S. F. Scouts Have Fun at Their Camp

By Frank Fukui CAMP CIRCLE 12, Russian River, June 25—The first day of orderly camp life for Troop 12, San Francisco Japanese scouts, was started on June 22 in a fine manner with the "first call" by our camp bugler Terry Takahashi at 7 a.m.

Following a vigorous half-hour of football, which was won by the Scouts, a breakfast was enjoyed. This day the camp merit system was installed.

Scouting Class From 9:30 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. instructions were given in various phases of scouting. At noon the first notes of the mess call sent the boys scrambling, running, and tumbling to the mess table, which is located in a convenient, shady place to partake of the meal, prepared by the K.P.

This year Troop 12 has two swimming holes, one directly in front of the camp and the other about one block below the camp.

Water Facilities At camp the boys have the use of one rowboat and one canoe. The rowboat is a property of Troop 12, having been constructed by the boys under the supervision of J. Tsukamoto, last year's camp sponsor.

The big event of the camp fire was the cremation of the camp ghost. The funeral procession was made up of the officers of the camp, who after marching around the unit campfire twice with the black drape covered coffin, paused before each scout. Scout after scout committed their evil spirits to the fire by touching the coffin and making a vow. From now on no more grumbling or sickness at camp.

Sac'to Girl Reveals Retreat Impressions

By Chiyo Muraoka As a delegate from Sacramento, I wish to pen here my impressions of the Bay region young Christian people's retreat, held recently at San Anselmo.

My first impression, as I arrived on the scene, was the beauty of the surrounding, with the great cathedral-like building covered with a mantle of green vines, signifying its old age. The green hills, not the city walls, surrounded the gathering ground, making one feel quite near paradise. Heaven and earth seemed to meet here. With the mountains, the giant trees, the moon, the stars, the colored lights, and candles—what a place it was for worship!

Sixty young people had devotional service in the twilight. We stood with awe by the sheer beauty of the natural setting.

This retreat was four days of fellowship in Christian study, worship, and play. The unselfish devotion of Dr. Smith to our race and his earnest sermons were very inspiring to us. I hope that this first conference retreat among such beautiful scenery will create a desirable spirit and will set a standard for all such gatherings to follow.

JOE TO MEET VILLA IN 10 ROUND BOUT

Japanese Favored for Match in Sac'to

Joe Tieklen, who is rapidly becoming one of the Post street Japanese community's leading citizens, will step out into faster company. His managers heartened by his recent knockout of Pierpont have matched him with Young Pancho Villa at Moreing Field, Sacramento, July 2, in an outdoor 10 round bout.

Young Pancho is the younger brother of the Villa, who once twice in Hawaii, losing an unpopular held the fly weight title of the world. Young Villa fought Wolgast decision in the first tangle but scoring a well earned draw in the second tiff.

Without doubt Pancho is one of the leading contenders for his late brother's crown. His performance with Wolgast stamps him as a top notcher.

Matching the untried Tieklen with the Filipino might seem suicidal. But Tieklen may be outsmarted, and if Villa knocks the Japanese sensation out, it will be a miracle for Villa the leading contenders for his punch would hardly break an egg shell.

Pat Frayne, Call-Bulletin sport critic, opines as follows: "In fact, if you'd ask me, I should think that Little Pancho is about to be licked. He had a good record in the Philippine Islands and the Hawaiian Islands, but he is meeting in the Japanese boxer a little fellow who has had a lot of action lately, is thoroughly acclimated and who packs a great pair of hands."

JUNIOR AND SENIOR CLUB

Conducted by Aunt Peggy As I knew where the door was, I staggered toward it. Something touched me and with its icy hands, it tried to choke me. And immediately, we engaged in a wrestling grip. I managed to set the unknown attacker on the floor, but since then, I haven't a slight idea what had happened until the next morning when Lord Bil had come in and woke me up. I told him all about the fiendish attacker who was clad in a ghost-like material jumped on me as I made for the door. Just then, we were confronted by Jonathan, who looked at me in a surprised manner. He immediately questioned me what had happened in the idol room last night. I responded as clearly as possible—giving him the details of my adventure with the "ghost." At this, Jonathan seemed to be convinced and both of us warned Lord Bishop that there is someone who is trying to get this Ghebre idol. Just then, Lord Bishop informed us that he will notify the Scotland Yard and he immediately made a phone call. Fifteen minutes later, Inspector McGregor and two of his best men arrived and they made a close inspection of this idol room.

"Quite true, quite true," interrupted Inspector McGregor. The fume from the inspector's pound cigar had completely filled up the room and I heard two of the listeners coughing.

"Well, thanks for your courtesy in telling us all about this mystery," McGregor added, looking firmly at Edwin and Jonathan.

"Now, we will hear all about the death of Lord Bishop," he concluded.

HOMESICK

(Dedicated to Hideo Makabe) By Lome Trailer. When springtime comes around And breezes softly sing Of Maytime and of summer, My homesick thoughts take wing. I dream of home so far, Of apple blossoms there, Of orchard old and sweet, The things I deem most fair. I long for singing brook By which I used to sit And listen to the coo Of woodland birds that flit. I sit and pine each hour For home so far away. For summer brings the memory Of place I long by day.
